Finns Concede Red Capture of 'Few' Positions In Summa Zone

Report Thousands of Reds Slain on Ka- relan Isthmus

APPEAL FOR AID

'Rely on Civilized Na- tions to Relieve Us,' Communique Says

Helsinki (U)—A partial Russian success in the Summa sector on the Karelian isthmus was conceded in today's Finnish army communique, which, however, insisted that the Russians captured only "a few foremost positions" in the eastern portion of the sector.

Even this restricted advance cost the red army thousands of dead and dozens of tanks and other equipment, the Finns declared in describing the fighting which they have likened to great World war battles.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, all Soviet thrusts were reported repulsed and farther north on the Kholm sector one Soviet battalion was said to have been annihilated and several Soviet positions captured.

The Russian advance, which took some Finnish front positions, was repulsed before it reached "our positions farther back," the communique said.

"Thousands of Fallen"

"Thousands of enemy fallen and dozens of wrecked tanks were strewn before our lines."

The communique asserted that numerous Russian tanks attempting to advance over the ice of the Gulf of Finland were sunk by Finnish coast defense guns which shelled and smashed the ice around them.

It declared that 17 more Russian warplanes were downed in yesterday's operations.

This, the fourteenth day of Finland's Verdunlike struggle against a terrific red army drive on the Mannerheim line, was marked by a proclamation of unbroken resistance and a renewed plea for help from abroad.

"Thus far, the Finnish army is able to hold its own, but we really rely on civilized nations of the world to relieve us in this situation," said the Finnish ministry of information.

The statement, made last night, was read to correspondents as if it were part of an accompanying description of the Karelian isthmus warfare from the Finnish high command. The ministry corrected this impression today.

Say War Rules Broken

The renewed plea for aid of all kinds—men and material, especially planes—reflects the military feeling, however.

At the same time, the ministry disclosed the foreign office had sent notes to foreign governments declaring the Russian forces were violating international principles of warfare.

In the headquarters statement, Finland's soldiers were pictured clinging to redoubts and breastworks in the blood-splattered snows of the Karelian isthmus and even counter-attacking in force at propitious moments.

Military authorities acknowledged that the Mannerheim line had been—but not broken—by the red effort to break through in the Summa sector to strike Vuuri. Finland's second largest city, just behind the line.

Major dents in the line, these quarters insisted, had been removed by recapture of steel and concrete fortifications, leaving only a few outlying machine-gun nests in Russian hands.

(The Russian command early today announced capture yesterday of 23 more forts of the Mannerheim line, making a total of 81 such positions seized within a week.

"The Karelian isthmus actions of Soviet troops are developing successfully," said the Russian comm.

British Volunteers to Aid Finland in Conflict Given Government Formal O. K.

London (U)—Britain today gave her citizens formal permission to volunteer to fight for Finland against Soviet Russia.

Ivan Maisky, Russia's ambassador, sat in the diplomatic gallery as Osbert Peake, undersecretary for home affairs, announced the decision in reply to questions in the house of commons.

The government's action regularizes the enlistment of British volunteers for the Finnish forces which has been under way on a considerable scale for some time.

Peake's written reply said: "His majesty's government have carefully considered this matter in light of the resolution passed by the assembly of the League of Nations Dec. 14 last on the subject of the provision of assistance to Finland.

"It would in their view be inconsistent with the spirit and with the terms of that resolution that British subjects who wish to volunteer for service in Finland should be hindered by provisions of the enlistment act, seeing that that act contains the power to grant dispensations.

License Granted

"Accordingly general license has been granted to British subjects to enlist in the Finnish force and license has been granted to a recruiting organization which has been established in London."

Only those over 27 years of age, or who for other reasons are not likely to be called for Britain's own military services, are free to join the Finns.

Thousands from all walks of life were said to be offering their services to the Finnish recruiting bureau, though no organized group is known to have departed yet for Finland.

A group of 500 "blue ribbon" fighting men with military experience was reported to be getting special training for service against Russia.

The government's policy was announced in response to a question from D. N. Pritt, opposition laborite, who asked the home secretary if he were aware of an organization was at work in London recruiting volunteers.

Pritt also asked whether, since the government had been advised by law officers of the crown in 1937 (during the Spanish war) that the foreign enlistment act of 1870 made it illegal for any British subject to serve in the forces of a foreign state making war on a state friendly with Britain or induce persons to enlist, violators would be prosecuted.

Britain's first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, indicated today in the house of commons that Germany's air power was keeping the British blockade at a distance from Germany's shores.

Answering a question as to whether the naval patrol was efficient, Churchill said:

"I think no one would expect us to be able to maintain a close patrol or a close blockade off the German coast having regard to the enormous development of shore based aircraft since the late war."

Churchill said that Britain was working to increase her protection of British trawlers and fishing boats.

Pendergast was unable to figure in the drive, he is in Leavenworth penitentiary with several of his lieutenants serving time for federal income tax evasion. Many of the lieutenants are serving sentences for vote fraud at the 1936 election when "ghosts" swelled the registration to 260,000.

Reform Faction Routs Pendergast Forces at Polls

Kansas City (U)—Boss Tom Pendergast's once unbeatable political machine, routed after 14 years from the city hall by a special charter amendment election, retreated today as reformists schemed to smash over a knockout punch in the April balloting for new office-holders.

How completely whipped the machine was in losing the eight-member council and mayor no one knew exactly since the Pendergast forces took their licking yesterday lying down.

Except for some mild support for a fireman's civil service amendment, rejected two-to-one by the voters, Boss Tom's men refused to stake their political prestige on the special election. Yet the voters exceeded all predictions by casting 113,000 votes out of a total registration of 192,000.

Four other proposals drafted by a Pendergast councilman were trounced five to one.

Republicans, independent Democrats, businessmen, property owners and civic-minded women banded together to whip the machine.

Terms Reduced

The approved amendment ends the terms of all elective officials, April 17, cutting them from four to two years.

Pendergast was unable to figure in the drive, he is in Leavenworth penitentiary with several of his lieutenants serving time for federal income tax evasion. Many of the lieutenants are serving sentences for vote fraud at the 1936 election when "ghosts" swelled the registration to 260,000.

Former Treasurer
Witness at Trial

Denies Hess Made Payment Before U. S. Checks Were Received

Crandon (U)—Called by Circuit Judge George J. Leicht as a court witness, Lester E. Carter, former Forest county treasurer, testified today in the trial of Albert J. Hess of Caswell, former county supervisor charged with embezzlement and malfeasance.

When Carter was asked whether Hess paid him any money on Forest county lands before government checks in payment for the lands reached his hands, he answered in the negative.

Carter and Hess originally were charged with making a profit of $21,000 through the sale of county tax delinquent lands to the federal government. Carter was acquitted but the case against Hess, once dropped, was reinstated by the state supreme court.

Judge Leicht made Carter a witness after a long debate between attorneys yesterday. Carter testified to land transactions between the Forest county land committee, of which he was a member, and Mrs. Dora Hess through her agent—her husband, Albert.

Carter explained that government checks were turned over to him and said he took out the county's share and gave Hess his share because of a previous county board resolution accepting Hess' offer of $15,347 in payment of back taxes originally amounting to $21,870 on these lands.

Many Italians Seized
Under Food Regulations

Rome (U)—Police, who are bearing down on food hoarders and profiteers, disclosed today that 28,150 persons had been penalized for violating regulations since the outbreak of the European war. The drive brought a total of 32,410 persons into court.

Eight offenders were sent to prison, five more placed on probation, 15,089 fined, while for 7,518 places of business were temporarily closed or their licenses suspended. Others were let off with a warning.

At the outbreak of the war special food violators were organized among the regular police to combat food hoarding and profiteering.

Commanding one of the greatest forces ever transported by sea, Maj. Gen. B. C. Freyburg (left) and Lieut. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey (right) headed the New Zealand and Australian forces, respectively, which were landed at the Suez canal. An armada of transports took the 30,000 troops to the scene of possible trouble.

Jap Army Says 'New Order' Is Established in East Asia and Asks Chiang to Stop Fighting

Hong Kong (U)—The Japanese army tonight issued a proclamation that it now had won "sufficient areas in China for establishment of the new order in East Asia" and urging Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to surrender.

Further Chinese resistance is "useless," said the proclamation, issued by Japan's South China command and addressed to General Chiang and his government.

The recent Japanese campaign in Kwangsi province in the south has brought the new situation about, the proclamation stated.

"Supply routes to Chungking (the Chinese capital) have been cut and rapid progress is being made in formation of a new central government in China under Wang Ching-wei," the proclamation said. "Therefore in the future we will not expand our operations but will await your offensive. In case you adopt this latter plan, we will resort to necessary tactics and add more pages to the war annals of the world."

Formal New Regime

Wang Ching-wei, former Chinese premier, is establishing a new central government in cooperation with Tokyo and in opposition to the Chungking regime.

General Chiang's government gave evidence of its determination to continue the fight by adopting plans to float munitions and reconstruction loans. Bankers said the munitions issue, the first so labeled by the Chungking government, would total about 500,000,000 Chinese dollars (about $35,000,000).

British Freighter Reported Torpedoed.

New York (U)—The 12,306-ton British freighter Sultan Star reported by wireless today that she was torpedoed 230 miles southwest of Land's End, England, and that the crew was abandoning ship.

The Sultan Star's radio operator gave notice that he was going overboard eight minutes after the S O S.

Buenos Aires (U)—The British freighter Sultan Star, reported torpedoed in the Atlantic, carried more than 6,000 tons of frozen beef and is believed to have been the first ship carrying Argentine beef to Britain since the war began.

Informed persons said that an average of three refrigerated boats a week had left Argentine ports since the war's outbreak, carrying more than 250,000 tons of meat to England.

Maryland State Police Save
Two Negro Women From Mob:
Seeking to Restore Calm

Snow Hill, Md. (U)—Heavily-armed state police poured into this eastern shore community to restore calm today after a night of wild disorder climaxed when four state troopers waded in to rescue two Negro women from the hands of a threatening mob of 1,000 men.

After hours of milling around the Worcester county jail last night, the angry men bashed in a window, ripped a cell door from its hinges and made away with the women, who were held for "investigation" in connection with the slaying of an elderly farmer.

The troopers caught up with the crowd at Stockton, where Harvey Pichard was shot to death Sunday by three Negro men who also seriously wounded his wife.

There, led by Lieutenant Ruxton Ridgely, they battled apparently hopeless numbers briefly but victoriously, seized the women—a mother and daughter—and dashed to safety across the Delaware line 50 miles away. Sergeant W. H. Weber suffered painful head injuries and at least two civilians were hurt.

By the margin of some 30 minutes, Sheriff J. William Hall and his deputies had spirited away a Negro man who had been held as a suspect in the jail battered open by the mob.

He was taken to Salisbury, Md., and held there with a fourth Negro while the steadily growing crowd noisily demanded that Hall give up his prisoners. Refusing to accept the sheriff's word that the man was not there, four civilians were designated to look over the jail.

Momentarily the mob dispersed, only to gather in larger numbers about an hour later.

Fleet Expansion Bill Given Naval Group's Approval

Senate Foreign Relations Body Delays Action On Embargo

APPROVAL IS SEEN

Upper House Votes to Clear Way for Loans To Finns, China

Washington (U)—The senate foreign relations committee today postponed formal consideration of proposals to embargo exports to Japan, but Chairman Pittman (D-Ore.) predicted that an embargo resolution would win committee approval this session.

He said the group would continue informal discussions next week. No decisions were reached today, he declared, because so many members were unfamiliar with the pending legislation.

Senator Connally (D-Texas) summed up the meeting thus: "We fired a few blanks and fell back."

Two bills, one by Pittman and the other by Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.), are before the committee. They would permit the president to restrict exports to Japan because of that country's alleged violation of American treaty rights in China.

Loan for Finland

The theater of foreign policy discussion moved to the house today in the wake of senate approval, 49 to 27, of a $100,000,000 increase in Export-Import bank funds for loans to Finland, China, and South America.

House approval appeared likely once the bill reaches the floor, but the routine of committee consideration probably will delay action.

In approving the increase in the Export-Import bank's capital, the senate restricted future loans to any one country to $20,000,000 and specified that they should not be made for the purchase of military supplies.

Despite opposition arguments that popular sentiment for a loan to Finland was being used to obtain an increase in the bank's funds that otherwise might not be authorized, the senate defeated an amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to limit this increase to $50,000,000.

Finn Minister Present

With Hjalmar Procopé, the Finnish minister, looking down from the gallery, opponents charged that a loan to a belligerent in even an undeclared war might tend to involve the United States in the European conflict.

Similar discussion is expected to be provoked in the house by Republican attempts to amend the measure to prevent loans to belligerents. Representative Wolcott (R-Mich.) also prepared an amendment to prevent the bank from lending money to facilitate the imports of competitive products.

There was a brief burst of applause from the galleries when Senator Russell (D-Ga.) urged that aid for the needy in the United States take precedence over help for Finland.

Maloney Is Appointed Trial Counsel of SEC

New York (U)—William Power Maloney, assistant United States attorney, who, in six years, prosecuted more than 400 defendants in mail fraud cases without losing a case, resigned today to become senior trial counsel for the securities and exchange commission, with headquarters in Washington.

Maloney was named an assistant in March, 1934, by Martin C. Conboy, then United States attorney, among those convicted through his efforts were William J. Graham and James C. McKay, Reno gamblers and confidence men; William P. Buckner, Broadway playboy; Felipe Buencamino, Filipino legislator, and others accused of defrauding investors in Philippine railway bonds; and Wallace G. Garland, the "boy wizard" and Arnold C. Mason, charged with manipulating an elaborate corporate empire controlling about 30 corporations capitalized at more than $40,000,000.

Budapest Publisher Wins in Saber Duel

Budapest (U)—Publisher Josef Ambros put his pen aside for the dueling saber today and in a combat in Budapest's early dawn rendered fiery Deputy Kalman Ratz, independent Nazi leader, hers do combat.

The duel, the result of a political argument, was found in a fencing academy. Ratz, as the challenger, opened the attack in each of three rounds.

After the first the Nazi was handicapped by a slash across the eyes. After the second Ratz had a 10-inch cut across his chest. In the third a muscle in his right arm was cut and he could no longer hold his saber. Attending physicians intervened.

Friends said it would be weeks before Ratz could meet Count Lajos Szecsenyi, an experienced swordsman, with whom he has a pending duel.

Paralysis Victim Is Mother of Daughter

Minneapolis (U)—A 24-year-old woman, Mrs. Grace Volkman of Clinton, Minn., infantile paralysis victim who has been confined in an iron lung for the last five months, gave birth late yesterday at University hospital to a five and a half pound girl.

Prepared for the last 10 days by breathing exercises outside the lung, the young woman was able to undergo a Caesarian operation with only a mask through which she breathed oxygen.

Physicians said the child was apparently healthy and free from the disease which had paralyzed the mother. Physicians would not comment on the chances of the mother to survive.

Committee Says Program Provides for Necessary Building

TWO-YEAR PLAN

Authorization Can be Increased if Need Develops, Vinson Says

Washington (U)—The house naval committee gave final, unanimous approval to a two-year $655,000,000 fleet expansion program today less than 24 hours after another house committee slashed $111,699,699 from President Roosevelt's budget for the navy.

The expansion program, specifically approved by the president, would permit the navy to construct 21 additional combat ships and 22 auxiliary vessels in the next two years.

Before taking final action on the program, the committee received a letter from Secretary Edison asserting the navy would have preferred the original three-year $1,300,000,000 expansion it recommended "because it would permit better planning and because of the deterrent effect of such a program presented to the world at this time."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said, however, the committee was satisfied its plan would allow all the building the navy could handle in the ensuing two years without additional facilities. If the need arose, he added, congress could increase the authorization later.

Authorizes Building

(The expansion bill is merely an authorization for the navy to build new vessels. The money to pay for construction can be provided only in separate legislation. Such legislation was the $966,772,878 navy supply bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1, which was reported to the house by its appropriations committee yesterday.)

As finally approved, the expansion bill would authorize construction of three additional aircraft carriers—bigger than any ships the navy has ever built for that purpose—and an unspecified number of cruisers and submarines. The exact number in the latter two categories was withheld in an effort to keep secret the size of the individual ships.

There were strong indications, however, that the new cruisers involved would be substantially larger than the 10,000-ton type which are now the navy's biggest.

Larger Air Force

The bill also would authorize increasing the navy's air force from a minimum of 3,000 to a minimum of 4,500 planes, but because of the navy's plane purchases already have progressed faster than was expected, Vinson explained, it will be necessary actually to build only about 1,100 new planes in order to reach the new minimum.

A last-minute change in the bill resulted from President Roosevelt's objection to a provision which would have permitted private shipbuilders to include in their bids the cost of any additional building facilities the expansion program necessitated at their yards. The provision was eliminated but Vinson told the committee the navy and treasury departments would have to come to some understanding on the matter, without the aid of legislation, so that shipbuilders could be reimbursed.

Otherwise, he said, they would not be willing to bid on the program.

Further Cut Possible

Despite presidential opposition to battleship cuts already made in the $966,772,878 navy appropriation bill, there was talk today that the house might trim the huge defense measure even further.

Members from farm states, resenting drastic economies made in the agriculture appropriation bill two weeks ago, were reported ready to vote for additional slashes in the navy bill.

The $111,699,699 leopped from the navy bill by the house appropriations committee yesterday, including $23,105,000 for four new 45,000-ton battleships and four cruisers, brought a statement from President Roosevelt that he hoped funds to build two of the battleships would be restored. Initial funds for the other two were provided last year.

In holding up all but $250,000 of the money, the committee said it had learned that the projected battleships and cruisers would be virtually the same as those under construction abroad. It expressed belief they should be made superior to anything afloat or in prospect.

Former President of Cuba Heads Assembly

Havana (U)—Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, former president of Cuba, was elected president of the new constituent assembly today by a vote of 39 to 29.

The assembly is to frame a new constitution for Cuba. Grau San Martin is a member of a group of parties in opposition to the present regime, in which former Army Chief Colonel Fulgencio Batista is the leading figure.

Indicted

Added Anti-Trust Law Indictments

Chicago (U)—The federal government turned its anti-trust guns upon a fourth branch of the Chicago building industry today, obtaining indictments against 17 firms and individuals in the electrical supplies industry.

The indictment, returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, accused five companies, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 134, and five company heads and six representatives of the union of conspiring to restrain "trade and commerce in electrical fixtures among the several states in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act."

As a result, the indictment added, "the cost of installing electrical fixtures in homes, schools and buildings in the Chicago area has been substantially increased." All defendants are of Chicago.

Heil Orders Martin to Appeal Tax Decision

Madison (U)—Governor Heil today instructed Attorney General John E. Martin to appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the state supreme court's decision invalidating the privilege dividend tax on foreign corporations.

The state court ruled recently that the legislature had power to tax Wisconsin corporate dividends, but that such power did not extend to foreign concerns operating within the state.

Turkish Newspaper
Hints at Attack on
Soviet Oil Fields

Istanbul (U)—The entire Turkish press turned attention today to Russia's rich Caucasian oil fields bordering Turkey, one newspaper hinting openly for the first time that the British-French-Turkish Near Eastern armies of nearly one million men might be considering an attack upon them.

The usually well-informed newspaper Son Telegram declared: "Toward the end of March or the beginning of April events are going to precipitate themselves."

The entire press carried descriptions of Russia's new fortifications on the caucasus frontier.

"We do not know," said the Son Telegram, "whether the U.S.S.R. is proceeding with these fortifications with the object of placing her coast and petroleum regions in a state of defense, or whether she intends to use the points as bases for attack."

If complications develop between Russia and the allies and the latter open an offensive in the direction of Baku (one center of Russian oil fields) then these fortifications might serve as bases for defenses as well as points for attack."

Majority Favor Embargo on War Goods for Japan

7 Out of 10 Would Shut Off American Export Of Military Supplies

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J. — Should the United States forbid the sale of war materials to Japan?

The Pittman resolution, calling for such an embargo, is pending in the Senate Foreign Relations committee and many organized groups advocate its passage. Others oppose an embargo on the grounds that it would only lead to further strained relations and trouble with Japan. To get some indication of where public sentiment lies in this controversy, the American Institute of Public Opinion has just completed a national survey.

The results show that a majority of those voters polled — nearly 7 in every 10 — favor shutting off the American export of war equipment and military supplies to the Japanese, even if it may cause further troubled relations between the two countries. Since the pros and cons of such an embargo have not been extensively debated in public or its implications fully explored, the distinct possibility exists that sentiment may change as discussion continues. The results of the poll are significant insofar as they indicate 1) the extent of American opposition to the Japanese policy in China, and 2) the general tendency of sentiment at the moment to favor the advocates, rather than the opponents, of a Japanese embargo. However, the vote for embargo is less today than it was last summer.

The issue put to voters by the Institute in nation-wide interviews was as follows:

"Do you think our government should forbid the sale of arms, airplanes, gasoline and other war materials to Japan?"

Those with opinions voted as follows:

Yes 75%
No 25%

An interesting feature of the survey was the low proportion of no opinion or undecided vote. Only about 1 person in every 20 (5 per cent) expressed no sentiment on the matter.

In an earlier survey on the embargo reported by the Institute last August, 82 per cent of voters questioned favored an embargo, while 18 per cent were opposed.

Hostile Sentiment

Today's study in public opinion is chiefly significant in relation to what surveys have already found about public sentiment on the Japanese-Chinese conflict. In the course of a half-dozen studies on the issue in recent years, the Institute has found a growing hostility of sentiment toward Japan. Two and a half years ago, a boycott of Japanese goods was favored by only a minority; by last year boycott sentiment had grown to the point where two-thirds of the voters were in favor of a movement to stop buying Japanese goods. And as the Japanese-Chinese war progressed public sympathy with China increased sharply, the latest study showing voters expressing sympathy with China by a proportion of 57 to 1.

When Secretary Hull denounced the Japanese-American trade treaty last June, a survey showed the nation 8 to 2 in favor of the move.

The main reason for anti-Japanese sentiment is revealed time and again in the Institute's interviews with citizens throughout the country. It is not because the voters have any particular antipathy toward the Japanese as a people, but because the Japanese are considered in the public mind the aggressors in the Far Eastern war.

A deep-seated hostility toward aggression, no matter in what part of the globe, is one of the dominant factors in American public opinion today, and one which colors sentiment on any number of specific issues. This hatred of aggression is not confined to the case of Japan; it expresses itself in antipathy toward the Nazis in their war against England and France and toward Soviet Russia in her war with Finland.

Retiring 'Chronicle' Editor Looks Back on Active Career

Weyauwega—When A. J. Rieck, editor of the Weyauwega Chronicle for the last 35 years, sold the paper last week to Allen P. "Pete" Welch of Manawa, former secretary to the Congressman Reid F. Murray of the Seventh Wisconsin district, it marked the passing from active editorial work of one of the oldest newspapermen in Wisconsin. Mr. Rieck will be 72 in March.

A printer of the old school, one who learned his trade as a boy setting pieces of type in a metal "stick," Mr. Rieck watched the country newspaper business develop into one of the really substantial enterprises of every worthwhile community. In addition to his newspaper work, he was particularly active in civic and community enterprises, and was connected in one way or another with practically every civic improvement that has been made in Weyauwega.

Mr. Rieck differed in one respect from most of the really pioneer country newspapermen in that he obtained his start in metropolitan surroundings. Born in Milwaukee on March 15, 1868, he completed the eighth grade of one of the ward schools, and then took his first job with the T. A. Chapman company of that city as cash boy at $1.50 per week.

Later he secured a job in a printing office where he worked 11 years, then was employed in other shops, and in the rubber stamp works of Dietrich and Adams, Milwaukee.

The depression of the late '90's hit all business and industry in Milwaukee, as it did in other large cities, and Mr. Rieck found himself out of a job for the first time in his life. He was 29 years old then, had a wife and two sons, and he couldn't remain out of work for long.

An opportunity presented itself to operate a farm in central Wisconsin. Its location was in the town of Spring Water, Waushara county, and there, in 1897, the Rieck family settled. They remained on this place three years, and then rented the John Ware farm in the town of Waupaca for four years.

Becomes Printer

By that time, although the land had treated them well, Mr. Rieck decided that he wanted to return to the printing industry. He made a trip to Milwaukee, determined to find work in his trade, and saw an advertisement in a Milwaukee paper which stated that Charles Crane wanted a printer for the Weyauwega Chronicle. So it was that the Rieck family came to Weyauwega in 1901.

Those were the days of the hand set newspapers, when every single letter had a complete individuality of its own. Not only was Mr. Rieck the compositor and printer for the Weyauwega Chronicle, but he also had to do similar work for Die Deutsche Chronik, a newspaper printed in German from the same 1918, and was president of the village for seven years before Weyauwega was incorporated as a city. He was a member of the board of education at one time.

He was largely instrumental in obtaining the first street pavement in Weyauwega, in installing the ornamental street lighting system, in placing the first water and sewer pipe, in building the first system of waterworks for fire fighting purposes, which was later developed into the present system of waterworks that covers practically the entire city.

Mr. Rieck is one of the best known men among county fair officials in the state, having been secretary of the Waupaca County Agricultural association for 21 years, and he still continues as a director of the Waupaca County Fair board. In 1920, he was largely responsible for securing additional land for a race track at the fair grounds in Weyauwega, and secured a county board appropriation of $5,000 to aid in this improvement. Practically all the local county fair buildings were constructed while he was secretary.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rieck are in good health. They will continue to make their home in Weyauwega, where their oldest son, I. J. Rieck, himself connected with the Chronicle over a period of several years, is now postmaster. They have one other son, Albert J. Rieck, employed at the Veterans hospital, Wood, and all civic affairs. He was first elected to office as village trustee in Wis.

Unemployment Was Individual Problem in Time of Lincoln

Washington—In his Lincoln day address at Buffalo, Rep. Bruce Barton said, "We are met here to honor the memory of an American who was ill-fed, ill-clothed, ill-housed—and did not know it."

And in a Lincoln day address at Omaha, Herbert Hoover said, "The outstanding problem in the United States is unemployment."

Between those two quotations lies the story of the transition in America from Lincoln's day to our.

In Lincoln's time, the matter of having a job or not having a job was up to the individual. If he was any good, he got a job. If he wasn't, he didn't.

Lincoln freed the slaves, and he was a long time coming around to that idea. Interest in the individual then was negative. Free the slaves? Yes. But whether men obtained work or not, or whether there was work to be had, was none of the government's business.

Today, as Mr. Hoover says, "Our national task is to restore productive jobs for these nine million men and women." What was accepted in Lincoln's day as an individual matter, now has become a public responsibility. If men cannot find work, the government must feed them. Coupled with that responsibility, government undertakes to discover policies which will put the men back to work. Mr. Roosevelt has one idea as to the best method. Mr. Hoover has another. The significant thing is the recognition of public responsibility.

That is a comparatively recent development. Only in modern times has unemployment been recognized as a public problem, a condition in which the community had an interest.

The word "unemployment" itself is listed in the Oxford English dictionary as going back only to 1886. Apparently the conception of unemployment as a public problem coincides with the rise of modern industrial life. Only in the late 1880s did the collection of unemployment figures begin. British labor unions soon developed regular unemployment reports. In 1893 some Swiss municipalities began setting up unemployment-insurance funds.

Before 1912 no country in the world had a national system of unemployment insurance. Britain started hers then. We got around to it under Roosevelt.

Hoover Was Reluctant About Government Relief

Even while Mr. Hoover was president, we began to move toward some assumption of responsibility. He advocated modest public works as an economic balance wheel, and through the RFC and in some other ways began using the government to stimulate private industry in order that there might be re-employment.

He was still reluctant about relief and at first tried to consider it a strictly local responsibility.

We have moved rapidly since then, practically in one leap. Throughout the numerous Republican Lincoln day addresses runs the expression by party speakers that a number of the changes introduced in the last eight years must, although modifications are recommended. In a recent Gallup

Librarian Speaks at Monday Night Club Meeting at Waupaca

Waupaca—After two selections on the piano, "Narcissus" and "The Rosary," by a trio of girls, Betty Carew, Dorothy Godfrey and Kathleen Peterson, the Monday Night club listened to Miss Sophia Kurkowski, of the high school faculty and school librarian, tell of the newest in fiction, history, biography and religious reading. Miss Kurkowski stated that there were 9,015 new books published last year of which 1,133 were fiction; 708 history and 669 religious books.

Next Monday night the club will hold its annual dinner with a patriotic program. Mrs. Paul Thatcher will be in charge of the program, assisted by Miss Louise Sill and Miss Dorothy Roloff. The dinner committee includes Mrs. Guy Mumbroe, chairman, Mrs. E. L. Furrant, Mrs. Oscar Cook, Mrs. J. A. Terrio, Mrs. Harry Durawa, Mrs. Joe Feunberg, Mrs. Sol Minkoff, Mrs. Carl Cohen and Mrs. E. J. La Haie.

A meeting of the Fox River Valley district presidents and district committee chairman of the Wisconsin Federation of Garden clubs is to be held Tuesday, Feb. 20, at Stein's tea room, Oshkosh. Among those to attend will be Mrs. Charles Bramer, first vice president of the Wisconsin Federation. The meeting is called to plan for several district projects including that of the lecture of Miss Dorothy Biddle on April 23.

The regular meeting of the local Garden club was at the home of Mrs. Lester Emans Monday afternoon with the lesson in charge of Mrs. Roscoe Kirby.

Chilton theater on Monday afternoon, Feb. 19, Mrs. Murphy, active in women's organizations, will tell the farm women of Calumet county how they can contribute toward a better farm home, better home living, and a more prosperous society for both the farmer and the city consumer.

A year or two ago I heard a large industrialist testify before a senate committee that he had been compelled to drop 30,000 employees suddenly in the 1937 collapse. In some localities his plants were the chief source of employment. Neither private industry nor individual resourcefulness could meet such a situation. That incident illustrates, in a small way, why these questions, ignored and unrecognized in Lincoln's time, have become primary matters of public concern now, and are finally recognized as such by leaders in both political parties.

Revives Argument On Justice Black And Ku Klux Klan

President Brings Up Controversy by Asking Press Apology

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt has unwittingly revived the controversy over Justice Black's one-time membership in the Ku Klux Klan. Mr. Roosevelt has called on the press of America to offer some apology for what it had printed about Justice Black, now that the latter in a lengthy opinion defended the cause of four negroes sentenced to death in Florida.

It is an extraordinary thing for the president to comment on supreme court opinions by directing attention to the persons who happened to deliver them, and it is even more extraordinary that Mr. Roosevelt feels that the opinion delivered by Justice Black makes wrong what the press printed about Mr. Black's membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

The facts are that Mr. Black was once a member and took the oath of the Klan, which, at the time of his enrolling therein, stood in opposition to Catholics, Jews and Negroes. When the question of appointment of Mr. Black to the bench came up, he denied that he was a member, but it appears that his denial covered only the circumstance that he had withdrawn and did not disclose that he had been a member. This fact was disclosed and proved only after Mr. Black had been appointed to the supreme court of the United States and taken the oath as a justice.

There can be no doubt that Justice Black feels he was unjustly attacked for what he felt was an indiscretion of his earlier days, and that the hullabaloo about his membership in the Klan was unfair. Still, there are few reporters in the national capital who will bet that Senator Black would have been confirmed as a justice of the supreme court of the United States if all the facts about his membership in the Klan had been revealed before confirmation was voted upon in the senate.

Still Smarter
Mr. Black undoubtedly is still smarter under the criticism of what he did when he joined the Klan. Since it is the chief justice who assigns to members of the supreme court the writing of opinions in each case, it was with apparent eagerness and enthusiasm that Justice Black availed himself of the opportunity given him by Justice Hughes to write the opinion of the court in the case involving the four Florida Negroes.

The day for the opinion announcing happened by coincidence or otherwise, to be the birthday of the great emancipator, and hence was particularly appropriate. Justice Black did not confine himself to the legal matters involved, but delivered an oration on the subject of civil liberties which resembled more a speech in the senate than an opinion from the supreme court. Still, even this is defensible in view of the personal feeling that Justice Black doubtless has that a large number of people think his one-time membership in the Klan prevents him from being fair to Negroes or other groups opposed by the Klan.

Misses Main Point
But the president misses the main point of the criticism of Justice Black, and maybe the justice does too. It was a widespread feeling that a man who allowed himself to be allied with intolerance on one issue was not temperamentally suited to be on the supreme court of the United States, which has to pass upon other questions of intolerance removed entirely from racial or religious bigotry.

Thus, the record against Hugo Black on the question of civil liberties still stands marked by an intolerance on the subject of the constitutional right of protection against search and seizure. As chairman of the famous senate lobby

Appleton Streets How They Were Named

This is one of a number of brief articles telling how certain Appleton streets received their names. The Post-Crescent would appreciate information about streets not already run in this series. Letters may be addressed to the City Editor, Appleton Post-Crescent.

Hycerst drive—From Reid drive to W. Cedar street, fourteen blocks west of Oneida street.

Named for Hycerst addition. Ritger street—From S. Harrison street to Goodall street, one block east of S. Lawe street.

Named for Anton Ritger, who erected the building which now is the Appleton hotel. The building was erected in 1892 and named Hotel Ritger; later became Hotel Randolph. Ritger died here in 1914.

South River street—From S. Oneida street to E. John street.

Named thus because it is the first street south of the Fox river.

Rogers avenue—From S. Mason street to Railroad avenue, eight blocks south of W. College avenue. Named for W. H. Rogers, who came to Outagamie county in 1849 and operated a greenhouse and pickle factory in that vicinity.

CHAMBER BOARD MEETING
The board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday noon at the Candle Glow tea room. Monthly business will be discussed.

the opinions he renders will be scrutinized for the removal of evidence of intolerance and class prejudice in the economic and legal field, in the hope that this will be superseded by the true judicial temperament which a man who is appointed for life owes to the American people—"rich and poor alike," as the oath of office so specifically requires. When such a transformation is revealed, Mr. Black may become one of the truly great personalities of the supreme court of the United States.

A PUBLIC RESOURCE

Doubtless most people will admire the sensitivity, the response to his constituents' complaints, which led Governor Heil to appeal personally to the state conservation commission to suspend its new regulations on Great Lakes fishing for a 60 day period to allow a further study of the arguments on both sides of the issue on stricter regulation of the fisheries industry, and his suggestion that the law be modified to suit the fishermen.

Knowing, however, that the lakes fisheries present a problem so technical and complicated that few laymen pretend to understand it, we feel that Governor Heil as one who doesn't claim an expert knowledge of the subject is setting a dangerous precedent when he attempts to interfere with the judgment of a governing body which acts only after prolonged study, and on the advice of scientists who are paid well for their knowledge.

Governor Heil responds to the plea of the fishermen that more rigid restrictions on catches on the Great Lakes will probably deprive them of the only livelihood they know, render valueless the only skill they possess.

Many fishermen inherited their trades from their fathers, and their grandfathers before them. They are inclined to view as unfair any attempt by state authorities to restrict their operations, to forget that their living comes from exploitation of a public resource, a natural asset which belongs to all the people, and which they are allowed to enjoy only by the leave of the public.

The present controversy is a bitter one, as all disputes over economic considerations are bound to be. We are tempted to sympathize with them when the fishermen decry the state's attempt to deprive them of dollars which they work hard enough to earn.

Yet we have the testimony of men who have studied the Great Lakes fisheries industry without bias that the huge food supply which has come from those great inland waters is being depleted. The lakes are fished out intensively. Fishermen themselves say they are making skimpy livings, although they deny in the same breath that stricter control of catches is warranted by the danger of depletion. But the fishermen are personally and selfishly interested. They may be sincere in their argument, but their outlook is bound to be affected by their own financial interest, and justifiably so. We don't blame them. But as against the testimony of the state and federal experts who are warning us of exhaustion of the once teeming lakes, the fishermen will not get the support of the general public which has a vital interest in formulating public policies to protect all public resources.

The fishermen are today distressed merchants. They oppose present conservation policies bitterly, precisely as did the lumber operators decades ago when the state acted belatedly to conserve what was an even more valuable public resource.

Incidentally, the suggestion of the state conservation commission chairman that the commission is tired of battling with the fishermen, and his proposal to the governor that a new department in the executive office be created to minister to their troubles, we choose to dismiss as not worth serious consideration. Chairman Conover's remark was undoubtedly inspired by annoyance after several years of tedious bickering with fishing interests. Certainly the state already has enough government departments. A proposal to set up a supplementary bureau to conserve fish, because the regular state conservation department can't get along with the fishermen, is absurd on its face.

A PART OF THE NATIONAL PASTIME

Men who are sometimes called statesmen have been known to die, some one long dead but who had achieved a great name for public economy as authority for superlatives and a spendthrift.

These energetic men of the world who have boldly placed the Trojan Horse, symbol of duplicity throughout the ages, along side the hammer and sickle as state standards, often quote men like Lincoln and Washington with the assurance that they are but treading in the footsteps and obeying the behests of these splendid leaders who were often tortured in mind over the decision of some difficult problem lest it might appear they had failed to scrupulously keep faith with the people.

So why in this age of glittering falsehood should not the gamblers of professional type be allowed their little joke of grisly hue? At least there is a little verse that has been learned by heart by thousands from the shovellers in the ditches to monarchs on their thrones that has been taken up by the slick fraternity of soft and clammy palms. It goes:

"O Lord, help me to win
But if I cannot win
Teach me to be a good loser.
Teach me neither to cry for the moon
Nor cry over spilled milk."

Police, smashing into one of the gilded parlors of despair in California, found the verse neatly framed and distinctly set out on the wall.

It is a fitting gesture of our age. And besides it makes it a bit easier for the suckers to swallow their Adam's apple as they leave with empty pockets.

AN EXAMPLE OF "BORING FROM WITHIN"

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, testified as follows before the committee investigating job applicants certificated to his bureau by the Civil Service Commission:

"We have had certified to us for appointment persons who had criminal records and who had served time in penal institutions; we had certified a man discharged from the army because of dementia praecox; one certified was 83 1/2 physically disabled and had lost his right arm; still others were mentally unbalanced."

"We have had communists certified to us and been advised that their radical views were no reason for not putting them to work in the bureau. I do not believe that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is any place for any person with communistic beliefs."

Civil Service is an attractive term. To the imagination it unfolds a system whereby public employment goes to the deserving, the faithful and competent. But that is quite impossible unless the membership of the Commission is wholly reliable. And such membership is impossible to obtain unless the appointing power clearly understands the dangers of even momentarily dropping the guards and permitting any appointments whatever without character as an indispensable requisite.

The collapse of mentality among the Fellow Travellers could hardly be better illustrated than by the induction into the FBI of criminals, traitors and the mentally and physically unfit. As well might we send the infirm and doddering to hold the gate against attack and the deaf and blind to act as sentinels on our walls.

It has been a field day in America for plotters and conspirators.

INSURANCE ASSETS

Within the formidable title "Operating Results and Investments of the Twenty-six Largest Legal Reserve Life Insurance Companies in the United States, 1929-1938," is contained an interesting and highly reassuring story of the financial status of some 100 million residents of the United States.

This bulky report reveals that between the years 1929 and 1938 the insurance assets held in the United States increased 63 per cent. The total in value gained from $14,892,330,000 in 1929 to $24,290,000,000 in 1938.

The amount of insurance in force with these 26 companies rose in the decade from $83,987,070,000 to $92,250,964,000.

The 26 companies which held about 87 per cent of the assets of all legal reserve life insurance companies in the country had 100,195,000 policies in effect in 1929, reached a peak of 101,588,000 policies in 1931 and declined to 98,054,000 at the end of 1938.

The most impressive feature of the report is that it shows the staggering size of the legal reserve insurance industry. According to this report the industry insures about one out of every two persons in the United States.

The report leaves little doubt that the American public is insurance minded. Recent surveys indicate that policy holders who were forced to default during the worst of the depression or who borrowed on their policies are clearing their investments rapidly.

One of the most remarkable facts about insurance is the high rate of repayment of loans. Insurance, as told in the report, combines sentiment and business judgment. Its growth, the vast sums it has to invest annually and the extraordinary remunerative nature of its investments make a drama that is as interesting reading as fiction.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

ST. VALENTINE IN LEAP YEAR

St. Valentine in Leap Year
Has more significance
For he must bind sad hearts and find
For all their own romance.
Now is the time for miscegenation
Born by the gentle dove
That extra day this month, they say,
Was put there just for love!

There should, in Nineteen Forty,
Today she can request her man
To be her Valentine.
For Leap Year was just fashioned
To help the timid male,
Now Cupid's dart aimed at his heart
Is certain not to fail!

St. Valentine in Leap Year
Has many tasks to do,
For he must cure ills we endure,
And make our dreams come true,
And while we're on the subject,
I know this heart of mine
Would be content if you'd consent
To be my Valentine!

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—According to most of the people of Louisiana there have been two Louisiana Purchases. One was in 1803 when the struggling young government of the United States purchased the vast Louisiana territory from France. The second was in 1936 when the Roosevelt administration suddenly wired the United States district attorney in New Orleans to drop the income tax suits against Seymour Weiss and other Huey Long supporters. Shortly thereafter Seymour Weiss, previously bitter against Roosevelt, appeared at the Democratic National convention in Philadelphia as an enthusiastic Roosevelt rooster, and the entire Louisiana delegation voted for the president's nomination.

Now in 1940 comes the report of a Third Louisiana Purchase. A good part of New Orleans is buzzing with rumor that the grand jury investigation of the Maestri-Long machine, which rules southern Louisiana, suddenly has been dropped on orders from Washington. Furthermore, it is reported that in return for this the Maestri-Long machine will support Roosevelt for a third term.

The run-off primary election in Louisiana takes place on Feb. 20, winding up the hot gubernatorial race between Huey's brother, Earl Long, and Sam Jones. Further indictments of the Maestri-Long machine would of course tend to swing the election to Jones, which for the first time in years would free Louisiana from Hueyism.

THE REAL FACTS

Rumors of a Third Louisiana Purchase have become so persistent recently that The Washington Merry-Go-Round has made a careful check of the facts, and is able to report the following:

The first primary election in Louisiana this year took place on Jan. 16. The week before Jan. 16, a federal grand jury was sitting in New Orleans considering indictments for selling hot oil. Among those whom the grand jury had under investigation were William Helis, one of the biggest oil operators in Louisiana, and his partner, Robert Maestri, Mayor of New Orleans and backbone of the Long machine.

On Friday, Jan. 12, while the grand jury was in session, John Rogge, assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's criminal division, got a telephone call from Washington and stepped out of the jury room. He had been in New Orleans handling the Louisiana prosecution personally and had done a spectacular job.

Rogge was absent from the jury room for nearly an hour. When he returned, he informed the grand jury that he had been talking to Washington, and that it was Washington's wish that no political figures be indicted until after elections.

This provoked considerable resentment from the grand jury, one of whose leaders protested: "Aren't we the grand jury? It is for us to decide whom we shall indict, not Washington."

However, Rogge, although obviously not pleased with his telephone instructions from Washington, persuaded the grand jury to suspend its operations, so that it could resume after elections.

Note—The justice department, when questioned about this, admitted the telephonic instructions were sent to Rogge but said it was made clear the grand jury could proceed on Wednesday, Jan. 17, one day after elections.

MAESTRI'S PARTNER INDICTED

However, Earl Long, the Maestri candidate, did not win on Jan. 16, and the grand jury was not called back on Jan. 17. In fact, it has not been called back at all. Presumably this was because of the second run-off election on Feb. 20 and presumably also because any more indictments of "political figures" still would upset the Huey Long gang in Louisiana.

Particularly significant is the fact that on Jan. 12, the day Rogge got the phone call from Washington, William Helis was indicted. Presumably Helis was not a "political figure." However, he is the partner of Maestri. Mayor Maestri, a "political figure," was not indicted.

Since then justice department officials have explained that through a technicality in the hot oil law—the fact that it was not promulgated—Maestri is in a position where he did not violate a federal law, even though he made a fortune in hot oil.

In Louisiana, however, it is pointed out that a state law provides that no member of the Louisiana conservation commission can hold oil leases or royalty rights, and that Maestri while chairman of the conservation commission held such leases. Furthermore, justice department officials admit that anyone that violates the state law can be prosecuted for fraudulent use of the mails. They explained that Maestri says that when he was chairman of the conservation commission, he was not familiar with the law which prohibited him from owning oil leases.

Fortright John Rogge is back in New Orleans now, and he may reopen the whole case. But the betting is he won't do it until after the election of Feb. 20, when Earl Long probably will be re-elected.

WHO QUASHED THE JURY?

Last chapter in the Third Louisiana Purchase is the question, "Who arranged it?"

One clue to this is that Senator Ellender, sometimes branded the "Maestri-Long messenger boy in Washington," was very busy blasting Rogge for holding his grand jury investigation just prior to the election. This is public record. But Ellender alone is not powerful enough to call off Rogge.

Records of the justice department show that Senator Ellender made no trips to see the attorney general immediately prior to the phone call of Jan. 12. However, Senator Ellender has not been backward in calling at the White House.

BRITISH BLOCKADE

The British now have become vastly more cooperative regarding the delaying of American vessels at Gibraltar, where hitherto United States ships have been held up for two to three weeks, while Italian ships have been cleared in one or two days.

Unquestionably British embassy officials are deeply concerned over unfavorable opinion in the United States, and are doing their best to remedy it.

They explained that the delay is caused because it is necessary to cable to London the manifest of each American vessel arriving at Gibraltar. Then the items on this manifest are cabled to the British consuls in each city to which the goods are destined. Then the British consul in Belgrade, for instance, calls upon the company which is to receive the goods and ascertains whether he has really ordered them and whether there is any likelihood of their being shipped on to Germany.

All this takes several days—sometimes weeks. The Italians, however, have been calling their manifests to London before the ship clears from the United States, and now the British embassy proposes to expedite the American manifests in somewhat the same way.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's shake-down of the alleged racket in the building industry will have to get along this troublesome election year with a bob-tailed appropriation.

Arnold fumbled. He might have got his money if he had linked his case with national defense. That is the one thing these days that will survive—at least in part—the economy wave.

J. Edgar Hoover, Chief G-man, was eager. Hoover nabbed $147,000 out of the deficiency bill to hunt spies and saboteurs in the munitions and airplane plants for the next six months, and got an additional $248,000 to hunt them from July 1 on.

But Arnold had a different case. He simply told the House appropriations committee that his investigators had uncovered plenty of racketeering in the building industry. In some cities, he said, racketeers have hiked the price of a home or an office building by 25 per cent.

Even while the appropriation bill was pending in the House, a whole herd of accused people in Pittsburgh agreed to pay fines and mend their ways. It was the first real fruit of the building trades investigation.

"We believe the savings in Pittsburgh alone," said a Pittsburgh paper, "would be sufficient to pay the entire cost of the national investigation."

It's A Simple Plan

We went over to the Justice Department to find what sort of racketeering Arnold was after. One of his aides outlined it:

A big contractor decides to bid on a building job. He invites a lot of sub-contractors to quote him figures on portions of the job, such as wiring, bricklaying, plastering and plumbing. In old days he would simply pick the low bidders from each group, add in the cost of the amount of work he would do with his own outfit, then have a basis on which to bid.

But, in a typical case, the sub-contractors decided they were cutting their own throats. They decided to organize a "pool" to which each bidder would submit his bid—just to compare notes. That was legitimate and no chiseling was involved. But the next step, our informant said, was for the sub-contractors simply to meet around a table, take all the competition out of the bidding, and apportion the work among themselves at comfortable prices. As other jobs came along, the contracts would rotate.

Getting the labor unions into the setup was the next step. To protect their own bids, the "pool" of sub-contractors would have to shut out an honest low bid from outside. That was simple. They went to labor unions, agreed to pay top union wages plus a cut to labor agents under an agreement that the unions would refuse to work for any contractor who was not in the pool.

That made the set-up complete. Any sort of agreement could be worked out. Manufacturers and dealers in building materials could be brought into the show. Dealers, sub-contractors and union representatives could pick up fatter profits by a mutual squeeze-out of competitors.

Pressure Groups Displeased

Under pressure of the anti-trust prosecutions the combinations melted in Pittsburgh and in Washington, D. C., among other places. Indictments against building racketeering operations have been brought in eight cities. The anti-trust division under Arnold planned to bring in as many as two dozen more. Fine have more than paid the cost. Arnold asked for a million increase. The House and senate gave him $60,000 less than last year.

Part of Arnold's trouble was that his performance had created pressure groups. The AFL, whose unions have been most affected, demanded the inquiry be dropped. Contractors, too, have voiced protests. In election years, such pressure groups can make themselves felt.

By contrast, J. Edgar Hoover gets his request without interference of pressure groups. Guilds of kidnapers can't lobby. And Congress these days is seeing two spies in every telephone booth.

Madison—Most interesting spectacle in Wisconsin politics this week is that of the weakest political party bleeding itself white in a furious factional row. Wisconsin Democrats during the last few days have shown more bitter enmity and more fury toward their brother Democrats than they ordinarily bestow upon their formal political opponents. It is curious and ridiculous on one hand. The root of the quarrel goes back more than a year, when a group of younger men in the party became tired of waiting for responses from the state leadership to their appeals for action. It is also tied up deeply with the Democrats' traditional genius for fighting and patronage.

Be it said for the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin and its rebel leadership that it had a cause when it seceded from the leadership of William D. Carroll and the state central committee group. Carroll won the chairmanship by default, he makes no secret of his opposition to the New Deal which the younger men insisted on supporting, showed no inclination to raise the Democratic organization from the low depth to which it sank after the 1938 election.

COLD SHOULDER

That was the first phase of the row. In the anti-Carroll movement other leaders, including James Hughes and Charles E. Broughton, were regarded as friendly. But soon came a rub with the Broughton, leadership, the official Wisconsin New Dealers through whom all good things (jobs) came for the Wisconsin Democratic faithful.

The ambition and the vigor of the new and younger leaders chafed in the Sheboygan. There soon came an implication that the young men were anxious not only to rejuvenate the party, but to take it over themselves.

Doubtless in this period a little diplomacy, maybe a little patronage, could have eliminated the friction and the D. P. O. of W. and the national committee and his cohorts could have worked together side by side in the 1940 campaign.

Instead the older leaders wounded the feelings of the ambitious young men gave them no concessions whatever, rather pointedly reminded them who had been leading the party in the state for these many years and the good old political rule that beginners can't get everything the first time.

CROWLEY SUPPORT

So the rebels broke off completely, included Hughes, Broughton and Crowley in their list of nominees for speedy liquidation. Thus today the state party is completely divided.

Evaluation of the respective strength of the factions is a rash project, but it seems evident enough that Washington prefers Broughton. In numbers, Broughton also has an edge, according to the attendance at his Wisconsin Rapids meeting. But due weight must be given to the enormous number of payrollers in Broughton's entourage. (The convention hotel at Wisconsin Rapids was thronged with federal employees and postmasters and their relatives.)

The D. P. O. W. has failed to make any headway in a large number of counties, but it does have a strong advantage in powerful Milwaukee county. Both are inconsistent in spots when they claim to be simon-pure New Deal organizations. The D. P. O. W. is running men for delegates who have records which ardent New Dealers would regard with suspicion, but some of the Broughton men are likewise conservatives in attainments.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND PAIRS

Two hundred thousand pairs of tonsils were removed last year in England and Wales. The operation in England is most frequently performed on children from five to seven years of age, more boys than girls, being "performed" upon. They still speak of the operation of tonsillectomy as a "performance" in England. I suppose the surgeons over there hold 'em to it, as they do here. It sounds more impressive—and expensive — to "perform" an operation than to do it.

Commenting on the scandalous (my word for it) frequency of tonsillectomy (surgical removal of tonsils) Dr. J. Allison Glover (Proc. Royal Soc. Medicine, Aug. 3) said many tonsillectomies are "performed" for enlargements which are physiologic or normal changes with development of the oral cavity or a protective increase of lymphoid tissue which occurs when the child is frequently exposed to respiratory infection or when decay (cavity formation) in the teeth is not treated by the dentist. Dr. Glover believes the operation of removal of tonsils is too often "performed" for such questionable reasons. The Schools Epidemic Committee in England concludes that "there is a tendency for the operation (tonsillectomy) to be performed as a routine prophylactic ritual for no particular reason and with no particular result."

Dr. Glover refers to one particular result when he mentions that from the English statistics available the mortality from the operation is larger than is generally appreciated.

Tonsillectomy is a major operation and a grave risk for any child. Yet it is sometimes unavoidable and must be done for the child's best interest, especially when the enlargement of lymphoid (adenoid) tissue in the tonsils and usually the adenoid body too obstructs breathing sufficiently to interfere with the child's growth and development or with getting enough oxygen. The operation is not warranted for the prevention of deafness or for correcting mouth breathing, in my opinion. Alternative, safer methods will generally meet these indications—X-ray treatment, for instance, or for children over six years of age, electrocoagulation (diathermy).

For tonsils which are presumably infected, the method of choice in any case is electrocoagulation, in my opinion. At least this is safe. In skilled hands it gives results which are equal to or perhaps better than the results of radical tonsillectomy. Unfortunately the method is not applicable to patients less than six years old, as a rule, because the diathermy treatments require the patient's co-operation and it is difficult or impossible to gain such co-operation from a young child, although I have seen a doctor skilled in this method successfully treat an exceptional four-year-old child.

I have always believed and still believe that tonsillectomy is a crude surgical procedure in the best of hands and now that a vast accumulation of reliable statistics have brought the operation into what I would call disrepute, it would seem that the medical profession generally repents this operation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Idiosyncrasy

You said you had never encountered a person with an idiosyncrasy.

I am such a person, my face and hands swell, break out in a rash like measles and itch intensely whenever I take the smallest dose of quinine.

(Mrs. C. S.)

Answer—Thank you. I do not mean to deny that such idiosyncrasy occurs, only to say that it is so rare that it need seldom prevent any one from taking advantage of the remedial value of quinine. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for "Quinine in Modern Medicine"—a pamphlet giving instructions for the use of quinine in the home.

Garlie

Is sausage rich in garlic a proper food so far as health is concerned?

(W. A.)

Ans.—Yes, if you like it. So far as I know, garlic is merely a flavor, has no particular medicinal or health effects. Yes I've heard the various yarns about cures by garlic, but a little garlic goes far.

Bang's Program Gets Spurt With Cut Restoration

Testing Proceeds With Renewed Vigor With New Fund of $46,000

Stimulated by the emergency board's recent action restoring a $46,000 cut in state appropriations for conducting Bang's disease tests, the program for controlling the disease among Wisconsin cattle is proceeding with renewed vigor, according to a bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

The state department of agriculture, cooperating with the federal government, has begun testing the herds of cattle owners whose applications for Bang's tests had been filed since mid-October due to a reduction in funds for carrying on the work. Magnus reports that many county farmers have been waiting a long time for their initial test and therefore will be taken care of soon. New applications, in addition to those already on file, will be approved as rapidly as possible, according to Dr. V. S. Larson, chief of the department's livestock sanitation division.

Prompt attention is being given the application of tenant farmers for Bang's tests required on cattle being moved from one herd to another, Dr. Larson pointed out.

The Bang's area test requested some time ago by more than 75 per cent of the herd owners of Iron county is expected to get under way this week.

13 Per Cent of State Potato Crop in 1939 Was Saved for Seed

How the Wisconsin potato crop harvested last fall was used is revealed in a recent utilization survey made by the crop reporting service, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Of the 17,336,000 bushels of potatoes produced in the state nearly 56 per cent, 9,692,000 bushels was sold or made available for market.

About 13 per cent of the crop was saved for seed in the locality where grown.

Almost 21 per cent was saved for food on farms where grown. Estimates show 3,600,000 bushels for this purpose.

The remaining 10 per cent was considered unfit for food or seed.

The estimate of potato stocks at the beginning of the year showed that about 5,234,000 bushels of potatoes were in the hands of growers, local dealers and buyers.

For the United States about 46 per cent of the potatoes for market from the 1939 crop are still available to the consumer. Stock of potatoes at the beginning of the year were estimated at more than 103 million bushels. Estimates show that more than 325 million bushels of potatoes were produced in the nation last year and that there were over 222 million bushels for market.

R.O.P. Certificate Is Given Waupaca Breeder

The Wisconsin Cooperative Poultry Improvement association has awarded the Virchow Poultry farm, Waupaca, an honorary certificate with 25 per cent of the trapnest flock qualifying as record of production birds. The R. O. P. championship for 1939 went to the white leghorn flock of Ervin Seifert, Green Bay. Of 328 white leghorns which Seifert entered in the tenth official R. O. P. home trapnest project, 224 birds or 68.3 per cent, laid over 200 eggs averaging more than 24 ounces to the dozen.

Edward H. Gibson, Madison, for the last five years state N. Y. A. director of work projects, will be in charge of the 1940 junior state fair camp at Milwaukee, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. Gibson succeeds Wakelin McNeil, assistant state club leader, as camp director.

Surplus Commodities Stamp Plan Putting Congressmen on Spot; Farmers May Benefit

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY
Washington — Offhand, you'd think the question of saving the taxpayer's money was just a question of congress making up its mind — then doing it.

That's exactly what the economy headlines you're reading these days are intended to look like.

But all the push and go about economy on Capitol Hill is far from important — so far, it might get important, if those letters from the folks back home keep pouring into the Capitol postoffice.

But that's another matter.

The farm bill for 1941 is a good example of the how and why of saving money.

In the first place, there is no more powerful group of American citizens than the farmers — and that holds true whether they stand together, or whether they don't. They've still got potent voting strength no political party can ignore.

And no group has a better-looking case to lay before congress. Unopposed, the official department of agriculture figures show the farmer was getting about one-third of his normal share of the national income in 1932. And, despite $800,000,000 in bounty payments last year, he got only 73 per cent of his fair share. That takes into account for the farmer the advantage he gets from cheaper food and clothing costs.

That's why congress voted a cool billion-and-a-quarter dollars to help the farmer last year. That's why most observers figured congress would continue big appropriations for the farmer this election year.

Up To The Senate

But a war broke out in Europe. And the national debt climbed closer to the legal limit of $45,000,000,000. And economy letters started pouring in on congressmen.

So the president side-stepped the farmer in his "get this January" juggling a cool $400,000,000 off the farmer's Federal dividend checks for 1941. The House added insult to injury, the other day, when it chopped out another $150,000,000.

That means that the whole economy issue, as far as it concerns the farmer, has been sent over to the senate, whose members are all elected in statewide elections. The farm vote often counts for victory or defeat with senators.

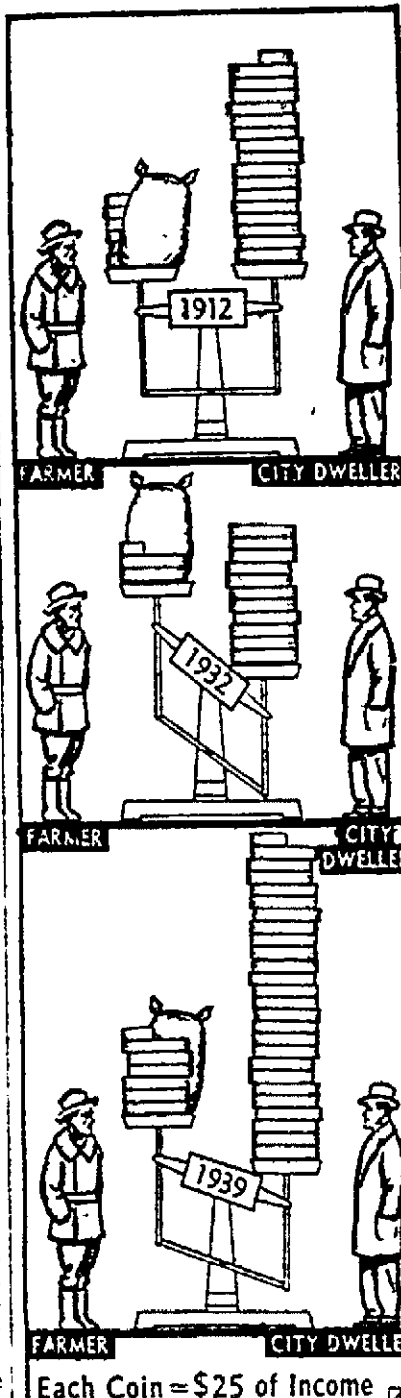

They Can Hope

Now the senators can hope that farm prices will go up under the impetus of the war in Europe, or that enough farmers will join the economy-minded city folks in writing letters demanding less free spending of the taxpayer's money, or that the farmers will not agree on what they want (they have never agreed before).

Or they can hope that the war itself will absorb the attention of the public, farmers included, and take the heat off the economy issue. They can hope for all of those things.

But if those events don't materialize, the senators will have to decide whether to take the credit for economy, or put the $550,000,000 farm bounty, or part of it, back into the farm bill. So far they have decided only to put off the terrible day of reckoning.

Meanwhile, Secretary Wallace's department of agriculture has put its stamp plan to work in 75 cities, and expects to be operating in 25 more by July 1. Cotton has been added to the surplus commodities affected by the scheme, which, in effect uses federal money (voted last year) to buy farm products for

Grange Will Open Card Party Series

The first of a series of card parties to be sponsored by South Greenville Grange during the next few weeks will take place at 8:30 Friday night at the Grange hall. Schafskopf and skat will be played, and there will be bridge also if there are enough who wish to play.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Pingel are co-chairmen of the party and their committee includes Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Schaefer and Mr. and Mrs. John Denkert.

For the regular Grange meeting Saturday night at the hall, an illustrated movie on safety will be shown by the Oshkosh police department. A basket lunch will follow under the direction of John Schaefer, lecturer.

Jolly Workers home economics club is meeting today at the home of Mrs. John Fredericks, route 1, Appleton. Mrs. H. W. Miller, past state president of American Legion auxiliary, is the speaker, her topic being the agricultural appropriations under consideration in Washington two weeks ago when Mrs. Miller was in the capital.

Bids to be Opened May 7 for Luxury Liners

Washington — The maritime commission will open bids at noon May 7 for construction of two 35,000-ton luxury liners to ply between San Francisco and the Orient.

The commission said the ships, to be the largest ever built in an American yard, could be converted to aircraft carriers in an emergency.

Carrying 1,000 passengers and a personnel of 500, each vessel is to be 759 feet long, with a beam on the water line of 98.2 feet. The designed speed is 24 knots.

6 Boys are Initiated By Century Hi-Y Club

The Century Hi-Y club initiated six new members at its meeting Monday night in the Appleton Y. M. C. A. The new members are Alex Strobl, William Ferron, Jack Bradley, Ed Ritter, Ralph Gage, and Harold Mollon.

ing to get it for their voters. That means they might have to dicker with Secretary Wallace's men. Maybe they might be persuaded to change their mind about the farm bill, and vote more for the farmer in exchange for a stamp plan.

Anyway, the squeeze play is on. The next step's up to the senate. The final day of reckoning can be put off a few weeks, but it's coming — and that goes for every one of the dozens of appropriation bills in congress.

That's why it's so hard to save the taxpayer's money in a complex economy like ours. Especially in an election year when everybody wants something, and his vote goes to the congressman who tries to give him what he wants.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"You give 'em 500 gallons—Mac can polish up the pumps and I'll wash his windows and tidy up the place."

Lime an Important Factor In Soil Building Program

Fully 30 per cent of the soils of Outagamie county need lime, according to Leroy Winterfeld, tester, in a report to the county agricultural committee.

Soil tests during the last year show that 30 per cent of the soil needs lime in order to establish stands and get satisfactory crops of red clover and alfalfa, without which the net farm income cannot be satisfactory and soils maintained or built up to former productivity, according to County Agent J. F. Magnus.

The 1940 agricultural conservation program again provides for financial aid in the purchase of lime and it is expected that local farmers will avail themselves of this opportunity to lime their soil.

Not only is lime regarded as necessary to correct acidity, it is needed to promote growth of other plants in addition to legumes and to help keep the plant foods in soils in more available form. To get the most benefit from fertilizers, particularly superphosphate, the acidity of the soil, it is pointed out, should be corrected by applying lime before, or at the time, the phosphate is applied.

Outagamie county farmers, who expect to participate in the 1940

Ben J. Rohan Is Re-Hired as Head Of Public Schools

Board Adopts Schedule of Rates for Use of Buildings

Ben J. Rohan was re-engaged as superintendent of schools for three years, beginning July 1, by the board of education at a meeting in Morgan school last night. Renewal of his contract without change was recommended in an educational committee report.

The report also recommended changing spring vacation from March 22-April 1 to March 15-March 25, hiring Mrs. William Crowe to fill a vacancy to be left by Miss Irene Besenman, German instructor, April 1 and by Miss Phyllis Jane Nielsen, English teacher, first grade teacher at Jefferson school, Homer Benson, board member, cast a dissenting vote.

A request of the Civic association to provide warming places in the basements of school buildings for ice skaters was referred to William Enger, building and grounds superintendent.

The Appleton League of Women Voters was granted permission to use the high school auditorium for a lecture by Father Flanagan, Boys-town director, this spring.

Adopt Rates
A schedule of rates for use of school buildings by other than school groups was adopted. The schedule was prepared by Myra B. Hagen, secretary of the board, and Werner A. Witte, assistant high school principal.

The schedule provides a charge of $100 for the high school auditorium or gymnasium when used by an organization which charges admission for its own benefit and is not of an educational nature. Groups in this classification will be charged $25 for auditoriums and gymnasiums in the junior high schools and Morgan school. A high school classroom will cost $10 and classrooms in the other schools will be $5.

Maintenance charges will be made when the performance is non-profit and of an educational nature. The costs follow: high school auditorium or gymnasium, $50; junior high school and Morgan school auditoriums or gymnasiums, $10; all classrooms, $5. Additional charges will be made for rehearsals.

The board of education will carry public liability insurance while an organization may be required to furnish a $1,000 indemnity bond. All rules, regulations and rates are subject to change at the discretion of the board.

Air Pilot's Job Becoming Simple

Instruments Making Handling of Airlines Mechanical Procedure

Indianapolis—Major R. W. Schroeder, operations committee chairman of the Air Transport Association of America, says instruments are cutting the airline pilot's job to a minimum.

Schroeder, United Airlines vice-president, told the association, beginning its three-day annual convention yesterday:

"The human factor is being instrumentalized out of existence. Soon the pilot will have an 'out' for every procedure—spare fuel, engines, spare airports and spare instruments."

Visiting airline officials watched instrument landings in snow and fog at the Civil Aeronautics Authority experiment station at municipal airport.

A Douglas transport plane from Transcontinental, carrying passengers, landed blind several times, guided only by vertical and inclined radio beams.

Delegates talked over the CAA's simplified air traffic regulations and uniform terminology for air transportation.

Thirteen airlines, two manufacturers, the army, the navy and the CAA are represented at the meeting.

County Game Club Votes to Sponsor Wild Life Exhibit

F. M. Foor is Elected Chairman for Third Annual Display

The Outagamie Conservation club last night voted to sponsor the third annual Wild Life exhibit in May at Pierce park. F. M. Foor, who handled the exhibit for the last two years, was named chairman of the committee in charge.

The exhibit is put on each year for the benefit of school children mainly but the general public is invited. The animals, fish and birds used in the exhibit are secured from the conservation department's game farm at Fayetteville.

Gambling Called Public Enemy No. 1

Norwegian Lutherans Rap Lotteries and Card Parties

Milwaukee—(AP)—Gambling is "an over expanding social menace which may well be called public enemy number one," Dr. Martin Anderson of Chicago, eastern district president of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, declared yesterday to a pastoral conference of delegates from Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan.

"The gambling fever seems to accompany periods of serious economic depression," he said. "Men hope in this way to recoup their losses. The poor always easily become the victims of the gambling urge because this seems to offer their only hope of escape out of the economic slough."

Dr. Anderson contended that gambling had attained the proportions of a "great industry" in America with an annual turnover of four to six billion dollars.

He asserted that crime and corruption followed the course of gambling and that "stark tragedy multiplies wherever it increases in extent."

The speaker also criticized the holding by some churches of lotteries, card parties, bunco parties and "fairs and carnivals with all manner of gambling devices."

The meeting continues today and tomorrow.

Lenten Thought For Today

Wednesday, Feb. 14. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.—Read Galatians 5:16-26.

"Life," St. Paul is saying in substance, "is an affair of many heights and depths." There are selective levels of interest, occupations or loyalty upon which we may live. Those who choose the lower levels are in bonds to sense and selfishness; they choose the downhill roads whose shadowed terminals are soon and sadly reached.

The true progress of life is a journey toward the heights. "He must onward still and upward who would keep abreast of life." As we live and labor in love, as we seek for each new day some new measure of goodness and happiness, as faith and gentleness become our habit and noble self-control our law, then we live in the spirit, guided by the Divine. That road leads uphill all the way, but its ways are pleasantness, its paths are peace, its horizons widen as we climb. There is always room ahead and its terminals are:

"... the shining table-lands to which our God Himself is moon and sun."

Prayer: Lord of the Ascending Ways of Life, forbid that we whose spirits Thou hast made akin to Thine, should seek such ways of life as lead to sorrow and sadness, but rather that we may grow in spiritual wisdom and being inwardly strengthened may abound in the fruits of Thy spirit. Amen.

Since 10 candidates have taken out nomination papers for the position of city clerk, the current crack around city hall is:

Fierce Storm in East; Mercury to Ascend Thursday

Weather Bureau Predicts 'Rain or Snow' for State Friday

Appleton and vicinity enjoyed clear and comparatively mild weather today as eastern United States bowed under its worst storm of the winter.

The Milwaukee weather bureau predicted that temperatures will rise tonight and tomorrow in Wisconsin and that the state can expect "rain or snow" Friday.

The mercury stood at 24 above at noon today, with yesterday's high reported as 25 at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. A 12 above reading at 9 o'clock yesterday morning was the minimum for the 24-hour period starting at that hour.

A St. Valentine's day storm, whipped by gale-like winds, tightened winter's grip on most of the east as rain, sleet and snow brought reports of "worst conditions of the year" from many communities, the Associated Press reported.

In New York City scores of persons were injured in falls on ice-coated streets, with walking made more precarious by high winds that all but blew pedestrians off their feet and sent hats swirling.

Accident calls became so numerous that four major hospitals adopted emergency rules to send ambulances on only the most serious cases.

Storm warnings were hoisted from Delaware breakwater to Boston, and the weather bureau reported gale winds off the coast.

Snow fell from southern New England to Washington, D. C., while Pittsburgh reported the heaviest snowfall in 38 years, 15 inches deep in the downtown area. Highway and air traffic was crippled throughout western Pennsylvania and hundreds of automobiles were marooned. Philadelphia experienced rain, sleet and stiff winds.

22 Inches in West Virginia
In the northern panhandle of West Virginia, 22 inches of snow fell.

Cleveland reported the heaviest snow of the winter in southern Ohio generally, 10 inches deep, with hundreds of automobiles abandoned on the icy hills of Cincinnati and the temperature at 18 degrees.

In eastern Ohio, 3,000 miners were kept from work by drifts 20 feet high in some places, and several communities closed schools due to the intensity of the storm.

Western Maryland reported falls ranging from two to six inches, "still falling."

In New England, snow of three to five inches was reported. A 31-mile wind hurried shipping in Boston harbor.

Update New York had an overnight snowfall as deep as 12 inches, leaving highways hazardous and forcing motorists to abandon their cars. Strong northeast winds accompanied the storm. Two feet of snow covered the highways in Allegheny county.

Colored Safety Picture Will be Shown for Public

'When Traffic Moves' Premiere at High School Monday Night

The premiere showing of "When Traffic Moves," the city's new colored motion picture on pedestrian safety, will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the senior high school auditorium.

The showing will be free and the public has been invited to see the picture, which was filmed by R. L. Swanson, a teacher at Wilson Junior High school, in cooperation with the Appleton police department.

Cooperating in the financing of the picture were the city council and the board of education. The police department furnished men to arrange for outside scenes and to guard the camera crew from traffic. Carl Radtke, head of the traffic division, worked with Swanson in filming the picture.

A brief program will be presented before the showing during which several state and national safety officials will be introduced. Brief talks will also be given.

The film opens with a scene in which a boy tells his father that adults are much more likely to be careless about safety than children because children now are taught from their first days in school to be careful. The two then visit the offices of officials and then to the schools where the boy shows his father what is being done in the schools to inculcate safety into the minds of school children.

Pegler Says Statesmen Ought To Stay Away From Banquets

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Several times I have heard Mr. LaGuardia orate on political matters before dressy gatherings of stags, and always our little alcalde has laid an egg. In each case the company, on the average, was fairly well muled-up, some individuals being just so many male Ella Booles, it is true, but an equal number at the other extreme being at or close to the yodeling point. The majority were just gently aslosh on the tide of their tall-scoches, which are taken as vaccination against the food at such rejoicings, plus a few shells of wine which the waiters distribute to one man in ten between courses.

These were not political meetings, but social nights out for suburban Americans of the husband type, and I have noticed that Mr. LaGuardia merely makes passes at his plates and seems to await his turn at bat in a mood like that of Samuel 'All as he listened for the tread of the sheriff's boys in blue.

Mr. LaGuardia's worth as a public executive and statesman suffers not at all from the fact that he is neither a comedian nor a humorist. He always overbuilds an anecdote until the edifice falls in on itself and he has to pick his own way out of the debris. Yet he and most other public men of sound reputation feel required somehow to imitate the rowdy professional persiflorers of the night clubs as a preliminary to any intelligent remarks which they have prepared out of their knowledge and experience.

The result is that when the company has kicked over their chairs and scattered to hotel suites around town to take the last half-hour's advantage of a night's permission from home the speaker of the evening has been put down as a disappointment who got where he is by political accidents and newspaper publicity.

He is judged solely by the preliminary nonsense which takes up from one-third to two-thirds of his time, and usually consists of punks humor badly written by an office statistician and poorly delivered by a man with no knack for jokes. Far be it from these dispatches to deplore humor, of which the world has nowhere near enough, but many citizens with the gift of government not merely fail but discredit themselves in the role of comic and never should try to be funny. Mr. LaGuardia, giving out on subjects which are in his line of business, deserves attention from any audience, and even Frank Gannett might be listened to with profit, if only by way of refuting the hardy old fallacy that every little boy has a chance to be president.

La Guardia Only One Of Many In Same Position

It is not my intention to localize this awkwardness. La Guardia is only one of many who suffer from inability to turn down invitations to unsuitable occasions and try to ingratiate themselves by acting the fool badly. Comedians are a dime a dozen in any agent's office, but comedy, nevertheless, is a trade, and certainly an important statesman shouldn't feel obliged to amuse.

Yet serious men may be seen every night during the banquet season, especially in a presidential year, putting on their specs and squinting nervously at the notes of jumpy guests as the time comes nigher when they must rear up and ally them in the aisles with a ready flow of preprepared wit, to be followed by six minutes of serious information or pleading.

The banquet, or dinner, incidentally, is peculiarly ill-suited to serious political discussion, because the spirit is alcoholic, and the boys on the fringes always make sneaks during the blackout while the baby-spot is beaming on the toastmaster as he presents the speaker of the evening. The rest, being in no position from which to escape gracefully, feel trapped and resentful and sit there wondering how long this is going to take, instead of relaxing.

Shapiro Gets Permit To Remodel His Store

12 Students at Vocational School are Helped by NYA

When old records need a check-up, new gadgets need to be built in the machine shop, or new lighting equipment is to be installed, Appleton Vocational school directors turn the job over to students who are working their way through school on the National Youth Administration project.

Twelve students at the school are enrolled in the N.Y.A., supervised by Elmer E. Grebe, Kaukauna, in charge of the work in this district. The students attend school 46 hours a month and work at jobs related to their studies for the same number of hours a month. The student chooses his own course of study at the school and then goes to it by both classroom and practical labor method.

The three distinct patches of blue in the general yellow lighting effect of the school windows at night make the parts of the building where the two students in electrical courses have installed a new type of fluorescent light as an experiment. Six units of these new lights are being tried out for laboratory use over the study benches in the electric department, for shop use over moving machinery in the machine shop, and for classroom use in the commercial department.

The nine students in the commercial department chalk up their working hours with supplementary office work either in the school office or in public and semi-public offices doing such things as typing, filing or special record jobs.

In the auto shop, the student studies auto mechanics along with the rest of his class and acts as the assistant to the instructor during his working hours. He keeps the tools and equipment in good order and repair and assists with the making of special equipment for the shop.

Expert Finds Sugar Causes Teeth Decay

Chicago—(P)—It's the sugar you eat that causes teeth to decay.

That's the conclusion reached after 10 years of study by Dr. Leonard S. Fosdick of the Northwestern University Dental school.

Sugar taken into the mouth produces an acid which, with bacteria normally present, causes tooth decay, he reported yesterday to the mid-winter meeting of the Chicago Dental society.

"The only method known at the present time to control dental decay, which has good scientific evidence to support it, is to avoid the intake of sugar into the mouth," he said.

Fond du Lac Concern Wins Over Commission

Madison—(P)—The supreme court ruled Tuesday that M. Supple and Sons company did not need the consent of the state public service commission to erect a bulkhead in Lake Winnebago at Fond du Lac.

The court sustained Circuit Judge James Wickham in finding that the bulkhead was not built on the bed of the lake. The company received authority for the project from the war department and the Fond du Lac city council. The case involved a dispute over the lake shoreline.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may rot and decay in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, and the world looks lumpy. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." America is making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10c and 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Sand Your Sidewalks

Why, then, do statesmen attend banquets? They make few friends or converts. If the speaker really is a wit, as Jimmy Walker, he never is taken seriously, and if he is clumsy at humor they rate him on that phase of the performance and begrudge him the few minutes that he devotes to intelligent discussion after the traditional period of mirthless nonsense.

Lawrence College Choir Again Scores Hit in Annual Concert For Artist Series Audience

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

LAWRENCE COLLEGE CHOIR chalked up another hit last night at the college chapel when it appeared in a program which not only achieved technical perfection but appealed to the audience from the opening curtain. Dean Carl J. Waterman under whose direction the choir has won national distinction added another laurel to his crown for the performance last night and for the impressive manner in which the program was presented.

No matter how often it's done, the trick of transforming the stage setting from a conventional choir formation for the first part of the concert, into a semblance of a drawing room "salon" with formally clad men and women grouped around the piano for the second half, always brings a gasp of delight from the audience. And when the music fits into the scheme of things as well as it did last night, the plan is given meaning deeper than just putting on a "good show."

The name "choir" in itself implies sacred music, and so it was to be expected that the group would excel in such selections as "O Lord God, to Thee be Praise" by Saeckel, and "Tenebrae Faciae Surti" by Palestrina, but the audience was thoroughly delighted with "Out of the Silence" by Carl Jenkins, the Negro spirituals, especially "Roll, Chariot, Roll" which was sung as an encore to the second group, and with Strauss' lovely "Take from the Vienna Woods" and the sparkling and vivacious "Romany Life" from Victor Herbert's "Fortune Teller."

Applaud Strauss Number

Deafening applause followed the singing of the well-loved Strauss number which was enhanced by the soprano solo of Janet Flewell, and the audience's enthusiasm was unbounded at the fine ensemble effect and the incidental solo by Marie Illingworth in the familiar "Romany Life."

Farley Hutchins played the piano accompaniment for these two and the closing selection, Finale from "The Gondoliers" by Sullivan.

Other numbers in the last group were "A Violin Sings in the Street" Ukrainian folk song; "Walking Matilda" Australian folk song, and "Tom-Bie-Bee River," a song of the old south, the latter being in more or less ballad style.

Particularly impressive were the numbers which the choir sang without accompaniment, for they were so arranged as to make the voices provide instrumental effects. This was especially true in "Tenebrae" in which the massed voices acquired organ-like tones. Other numbers in the first group were "Hosanna to the Son of David" by Weelkes, "Ascendit Deus" by Gallus, and "O Lord God" by Tschernokoff. As an encore the choir sang a Ukrainian Christmas song featuring bell effects in treble and bass.

Very well received in the second group was "Out of the Silence," as was also "Benedictus" by Paladilhe in which William Hogue and Harriet Peterman sang the incidental tenor and soprano solos. "Woe Unto Them" by Thompson was presented in masterly style, and "Spirit Ob de Lord," a Negro spiritual, was made interesting with banjo effects in the bass. Another Negro spiritual, "Honor! Honor!" and "Hear My Prayer, O God" by Arkhangelsky completed the second group.

The Republican Nomination

All speculation about the convention, platforms, and issues is subject to the proviso that it is a long time until June, a much longer time until November, and that in this interval events entirely beyond the control of any one may change radically the whole situation. So there is a general feeling that the sensible thing to do is to avoid being stampeded by anybody and, watching all the various combinations that are possible, to wait and see.

It is, however, fairly clear that neither party is going to nominate a really dark horse. The people will want to know a great deal about the man they vote for this time, and they will not take to the idea of a candidate who has to be introduced to them after he is nominated. So, as regards the Republicans, the choice for president is almost certain to be among Dewey, Taft, and Vandenberg, with a somewhat wider choice for vice president.

We can, I think, go further and say that as things stand now the supporters of Dewey and Taft would have a working majority in the convention provided they do not start quarreling too much over whether the ticket is to be Taft and Dewey or is to be Dewey and Taft. For these two men combined enlist the support not only of the largest Republican constituency but of the most substantial and influential leaders of the party. Though there is some difference of temperament, emphasis and views between Mr. Taft and Mr. Dewey they are in the same central tradition of the Republican party and nothing that is deep and important divides their respective followers. These two men together unite the largest number of Republican voters.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Dewey are men of moderate views who try to represent the central mass of ordinary sensible Republicans. Mr. Vandenberg's appeal, on the other hand, is to the more vehement factions, to both ends rather than to the middle. He is not merely a protectionist but he is for an embargo on imports. He is against the New Deal bureaucracy to superintend the whole vast complicated machinery of foreign exchange and commercial payments. He is a pacifist and an isolationist and yet, until the consequences were called to his attention, he wanted to summon Japan before a conference of the powers and judge her under the Nine-Power treaty. Then he wanted to make a new treaty with Japan. It is this propensity of his to adopt such strange, contradictory and extreme views which divides him from the main mass of Republicans. Mr. Vandenberg is, therefore, most likely to disrupt that to unify his party. For the Republicans must to before the country with an appeal to the desire of the people for stability, moderation and practical good sense.

As of today it seems to me, therefore, that a Republican convention meeting now would have to decide whether to make its ticket Taft and Dewey or Dewey and Taft. These two men are a natural team, standing for essentially the same things and complementing each other in many ways.

Neither of them, of course, has had very much experience in public life. Though the rule is not absolute, it is, I think, true that the most effective American presidents, at least since Lincoln, have been men who had had experience as a chief executive, usually as governor of a state. Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Calvin Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt all had that experience. The names of those who came to the presidency without the experience of being elected to high executive office and of having to administer a government and of having to lead a legislature will, I think, confirm the idea that it is something of a gamble to elect as chief executive any one who has never been a chief executive.

So both Mr. Taft and Mr. Dewey have to be considered as untested, and the question is what might be expected of them, judging by what is known of their minds and characters.

Both Men Are Able And Willing to Learn

The first thing that is quite evident about both men is also reassuring. Both are able and willing to learn, both have developed rapidly in the past year. Mr. Dewey learns not so much because he is young; plenty of younger men never learn anything. Mr. Dewey learns because he has native political intuition, the same kind of talent for knowing what is going on that exists in men like Al Smith, LaGuardia, Lloyd George, and in the first and second Roosevelt. He is a born politician and leader of men. Men of this sort have antennae which pick up what is in the air about them, and they respond quickly. The defect of this political virtue is that men who possess it tend to believe too much in the mystic voices that they hear, and to lack intellectual humility in listening to men who give them true, though unpopular, advice.

Mr. Taft does not have this intuition, and it is a handicap to him in a time like this when public opinion is, on the surface at least, so potent and yet so changeable. But Mr. Taft is an exceedingly honest man, and because of that he has learned much during his years in Washington, and he has matured remarkably. He is one of those men who really do learn by listening to people and studying and thinking and then making up their minds. He is not a good improviser, and that is in some ways a defect in an age when a public man must often think fast even if he does not always think right.

Taft Is An Intellectually Honest and Sincere Man

But the defect is one which arises from a great strength and important virtue, above all out of the virtues of Taft.

Third of Series of Fruit Confabs Feb. 19

Chilton—Prof. Conrad L. Kuehner, of the horticulture department of the University of Wisconsin, will hold a third in a series of fruit meetings at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Feb. 19, in the Harrison town hall and at 1:30 in the afternoon at the Brillion city hall.

This third lesson will take up the subject of disease and insect control in the orchard. Much of the fruit and berries produced on the farm is ruined by disease and insects and much of this loss could be avoided by knowing how to control the diseases and insects that cause the losses, according to Prof. Kuehner.

New London High School Cast Will Give 'Stage Door'

26 Student Players Selected for Performance in March

New London — One of the most ambitious productions to be undertaken by New London High school dramatists groups is the play version of "Stage Door" for which a cast of 26 was selected this week by Miss Mary Larsen, director. The 3-act drama of high comedy will be presented by the Thespian Troupe at the Washington High school auditorium on Friday, March 15.

Because there are not enough Thespians to fill out the large cast for the annual all-Thespian production, four other experienced players have been enlisted in the cast. They are Duane and Delores Schoening, Joyce Prall and Delores Brault.

The story is the well known stage and screen success written by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, but the play version for school dramatists is less involved and well adapted for high school production, according to Miss Larsen. The outstanding characters of the play are somewhat from the screen portrayal.

Leading Roles

Kathleen Smith will have the lead as Terry Randall, one of the actresses, and opposite her will be Richard Deming as Keith Burgess, a fanatic writer who becomes successful.

Portraying the girl actresses who room at the club around which the play revolves will be Mary Thersens as Olga Brandt, a Russian pianist; Shirley Fonstad as Little Mary; Betty Gottschalk as Big Mary; Emily Zachow as Bernice Niemeyer; Patricia Egan as Madeleine Vaulain; Mary Brown as Judith Canfield; Jean Fox as Ann Braddock; Delores Brault as Bobby Melrose, a southern girl; Eileen Mesheke as Pat Devine.

Ethel Knapstein will have the role of Kaye Hamilton. Kendall Adams, the rich girl who is the center of the screen version, will be played by Beverly Eicks. Helen Schoenrock will be Jean Maitland, a girl who goes to Hollywood and finds success; and Dorothy Allen will play the part of Louis Mitten, the girl who marries and settles down at Appleton, Wis.

Provide Comedy

Comedy is provided by Mattie, the maid at the club, and her husband, the handy man. The parts will be taken by Joyce Prall and Clifford Forster. Mrs. Orcutt who runs the place will be represented by Eunice Freiburger.

Among the male leads are Jack Seering as David Kingsley, a producer interested in Terry; Maurice Levine as Adolph Gretzel, theater magnate; James Christensen as Sam Hastings, a frequent caller; and Lyle Hobbs and William Budwit as Fred Powell and Lou Milhauser, respectively, as western lumbermen vacationing in New York. Dr. Randall, Terry's father, will be played by Lawrence Manske. Duane and Dalton Schoening will be Larry Westcott and Billy, two publicity men.

With just a month left before the play goes on, daily 2-hour rehearsals will be launched this week under the direction of Miss Larsen.

Bill Hapac Given Chance to Set New Big 10 Cage Mark

Coach Says He'll Crack Record if Close Guarding Doesn't Rile Him

CHICAGO—(P)—Bill Hapac, Illinois' basketball hot shot, may "sew up" another Big Ten individual scoring record if he sticks to his knitting.

The Illinois captain established a new single game mark with 34 points against Minnesota Saturday. He came back with only nine against Northwestern Monday, but despite this and the fact he has missed a game and a half, he is averaging two points a game more than did Jewell Young of Purdue in setting the all time high of 184 points in 1937-38.

Hapac, at the halfway point in the conference race, has scored 65 points in five games—an average of 13 a contest. At this startling pace he would wind up with 187 points for the year.

Illness kept him out of the Big Ten opener with Indiana. He got six points playing the half game against Chicago and then returned to full time duty, scoring 16, 20, 34 and 9 points against Ohio State, Michigan, Minnesota and Northwestern, respectively.

Early in the season, Wally Roettger, assistant Illinois cage coach, said Hapac was the best basketball player in the conference. Only Hapac's temper, he added, "could keep him from being the star of the conference this year."

"Can't Stop Him"

"It isn't easy to keep your temper when players are guarding closely and using every device that coaches can think of to hold you down, but if Bill sticks to his knitting, they can't stop him."

Hapac's only explanation for his record breaking shooting Saturday was "nice passes—plenty of nice passes." However, Bill Haarlow, who officiated the game and who at one time shared a previous Big Ten record of 29 points with Young, Joe Reiff of Northwestern, and Pick Dehner of Illinois, said "the ball seemed to have eyes. I don't see how he got some of those shots away." Four of the goals were set-ups, the others from 20 to 35 feet out.

Hapac's week-end activities gave him a nine-point lead over Northwestern's sophomore, Dick Klein, who had 76. Klein went on a spree of his own against Michigan Saturday and collected 24 points. Gene Englund of Wisconsin, pace setter before the mid-term lull due to examinations, fell to third place with 71 points.

Badger Boxers to Battle Spartans

First Intercollegiate Show Finds Wisconsin Missing Key Men

MADISON—(P)—Captain Omar Crocker, National Collegiate Athletic Association 145 pound champion, will lead the University of Wisconsin boxing team into a seven match season program against Michigan State here Friday night.

Starting his third year in the collegiate ring, Crocker, whose parents recently moved from Aurora, Wis., to Pontiac, Mich., carries a terrific wallop in either hand and usually wins by knockouts.

Another Badger miltman who won an N. C. A. A. title here last spring is Woody Swancutt, of Wisconsin Rapids, 155 pounder, whose slashing attack wears down opponents.

Coach Johnny Walsh planned on having another N. C. A. A. champion on his roster, but Gene Rankin, of Superior, who annexed the 135 pound crown, was ruled ineligible after mid-year exams.

Loss of Rankin and Verdayne Join, of Wauwatosa, the latter declared ineligible before he could start his first season, as heavy-weight, left two vacancies hard to fill.

Warren Jollymore, of Proctor, Minn., Rankin's logical successor, will be unable to compete against Michigan State because he received a condition in one course and must pass a special exam to be given after the fights.

Unless Coach Walsh finds a substitute for Jollymore, the Badgers will forfeit the 135 pound match Friday to the Spartan captain, Clinton A. Braidwood, undefeated in dual matches last year.

Walsh intended to use the veteran Nick Lee, of Madison, in 175 pound bout, but was forced to return him to the heavy-weight class because he had no replacement for John Lee was runnerup in the heavy-weight division of the 1939 N. C. A. A. tournament.

WHATTIA SCORE

Washington, Pa.—(P)—Scorekeepers put in a night's work at the Hazle-Atlas No. 2 basketball encounter with the Twenty-eighth field artillery of Pittsburgh. Hazle-Atlas athletes muzzled the guns of the visitors by a count of 140-29 with Irving Zamsky, former Washington star, marking up 48 of the points.

PACE BIG TEN CAGE SCORERS

At the half-way point in the Big Ten basketball race, Bill Hapac (left), captain of the Illinois five, and Dick Klein (right), Northwestern sophomore, were leading the individual scoring race. Hapac has scored 65 points for the top position and Klein is second with 76. This picture was made just before the Illinois-Northwestern game, which the Illini won, 35 to 33.

Kaukauna High Rattles Up 45-30 Victory Over Jays

BY RANDY HAASE

MENASHA—The rangy Kaukauna High school basketball team scored a 45 to 30 victory over a scrappy little Menasha High school team here Tuesday night to retain a chance for Northeastern Wisconsin conference honors. The Kaws turned on the heat during the second half to clinch the game, scoring 30 points in the last two quarters.

J. Bloch, counting several times on fast breaks when the Menasha defense was caught short, took scoring honors with 14 points on six baskets and two free throws. Alger was second with 12 points on three and six and Carl Giordana tossed in 10 points for the Kaws. The Kaukauna team used its advantage in height and weight to drive in for short shots.

Gus Block, Menasha sophomore guard, led the Bluejays offense with eight points and also sparked the defense. He and Osiwalski stole the ball on numerous occasions from their larger opponents but the Jays seldom turned the advantage into scores. When a shot hung on the rim, the breaks refused to fall for the Jays.

Through the first half the game was close with Kaukauna holding a slight edge. They had an 8 to 5 margin at the first quarter and 15 to 9 at the half. They stretched their advantage in the third period to 28 to 18. Both teams let defense go in the final quarter but the Jays could not match the scoring pace of the Kaws.

Bisels opened the scoring with a rebound shot but Osiwalski retaliated with a set-shot from the corner. Giordana converted on a free throw and Swedberg stole the ball and dribbled in for a short goal. Wipich made a free throw and Block pushed in a one-hander to tie the score at 5-all. Alger, Bisels, and Bloch added free throws before the quarter ended and Kaukauna had a lead it never lost. The Kaws made 15 out of 22 gift shots during the game.

Gus Block counted on two gift shots for the Jays but J. Bloch for Kaukauna made a short shot, Swedberg also hit on a short attempt and J. Bloch scored on an out-of-bounds play to put Kaukauna ahead 14 to 7. Block and R. Landskron counted swiftness and Alger picked up a free throw. R. Landskron scored a rebound shot to leave the Jays trailing 15 to 11 at the half.

Step Up Pace

R. Landskron hooked one from the corner to open the second half and the Jays trailed 15 to 13. Kaukauna then stepped the pace up. Giordana made a free throw, a field goal, and a free throw when fouled by Block as he made the goal. Anderson counted to make the score 19 to 15 but J. Bloch got a shot from the corner. On a double foul both Alger and Anderson scored making the score 22 to 16.

Giordana made a free throw and a field goal and then Alger counted from the field and made one of two gift shots when fouled by J. Landskron. Free throws by Wipich and Block made the score 28 to 18 at the end of the period.

The teams matched points during the early part of the fourth quarter but Kaukauna pulled away in the final minutes. Bloch made a free throw and Wipich countered with a set shot. Alger made his first field goal, a short shot, and R. Landskron hooked one in retaliation. J. Bloch got another short goal for Kaukauna and Alger made a free throw.

Gus Block sank a push shot and Osiwalski scored on a fast break to make the score 34 to 26 but then Kaukauna started to pull away. Alger hit on a free throw and a short goal before Wipich got a basket. Ranquette made two out of three gift shots for the Kaws on Wipich's fourth foul and a foul on Anderson. Giordana scored another basket before Anderson drove one in for Menasha. J. Bloch wound up the scoring with two baskets on fast breaks.

In addition to the eight points by Gus Block, R. Landskron collected three baskets and a free throw for the Jays. Wipich had six points while Anderson had five and Osiwalski four.

Wrigley Says He Won't Weaken on Cub Holdouts

CHICAGO—(P)—If Chicago Cub rookies get a break because the regulars hold out, that is all right by Owner P. K. Wrigley.

"Now is as good a time as any to see if we can't get a little young blood into the lineup," Wrigley declared today. "We finished fourth last year and that makes it look as if there is room for improvement."

"We probably could finish at least fourth even if some of the holdouts stay away indefinitely. I am not going to weaken and that goes for Dizzy Dean, too."

Dean, Stan Hack, Hank Leiber, Augie Galan and Clay Bryant have yet to sign contracts, although they have been communicating with Wrigley by letter and telephone.

BUC OUTFIELDER SIGNS

PITTSBURGH—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today Fern Lee Bell had accepted terms for 1940, completing Frankie Frisch's lineup in the outfield.

Bell came to Pittsburgh by draft from Louisville last season and is the 29th Buc to sign, leaving only Lee Handley, Arky Vaughan, Bob Klinger, Russ Bauers and Ray Berres on the outside.

Infielder Eugene Handley, brother of Lee, sent in his signed contract yesterday, developing the possibility that the Pirates might have another brother act this season to supplement the 13-year partnership of Paul and Lloyd Waner. Eugene was released last May from Albany, signed by Pittsburgh and optioned to Toronto.

MACK DOESN'T CARE

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—Six Athletics holdouts—four pitchers, catcher, and a first baseman—failed to worry Connie Mack today as he wound up arrangements for the club's departure for spring training camp two days hence.

"I can get along without them," declared the 77-year-old manager emphatically. "I can get all the ballplayers I want."

That probably is no idle threat. For Connie is the gentleman who turned over a cool $65,000 for the services of Benny Mc Coy.

The Athletics who have not yet returned contracts are pitchers Lynn Nelson, George Easter, Ed Heusser and Elton Hogsett, catcher Frank Hayes and first baseman Dick Siebert.

CASEY GETS RAISE

ATLANTA—(P)—Hugh Casey, the Atlanta husky who won 15 games and lost 10 for Brooklyn last season, has a new contract calling for $7,500, an increase of $4,000, and he's going to watch his weight and skill in hopes the salary boost will be high.

Casey said yesterday he had an agreement with the Dodgers to "cut my weight and get a fat contract." He weighs 192 pounds now.

"If I report under 200 I get the salary hike," said Casey. "Then I've got to behave myself, pitch winning ball and stay below 200 for the season too grab another bonus. In all,

Woman's Maternal Instinct May Spoil Marital Chances

BY DOROTHY DIX

Did you ever notice that some women seem to have the unhappy faculty of always getting entangled with the wrong men? They invariably fall in love with rosters. They go through long engagements that end up in their being jilted for younger and fresher faces. And, no matter if they marry and are divorced a dozen times, their last pick of husbands is no better than their first.

Dorothy Dix

I once asked a woman who was an old maid and who was still beautiful and fascinating at middle age how it happened that she had never married. "Oh," she replied with a smile and a shrug, "I am one of the women who haven't any man sense and I have always let my fancies run away with my judgment. I have had plenty of opportunities to make fine marriages to splendid men, some of them very important men who would have given me security and position and riches. But always when the right man came along I thought myself in love with the wrong one—some never-do-well who couldn't support himself, to say nothing of a wife."

"Or I was being noble, a prop for some weakling who made me feel that he would flop without my influence to brace him up. Or I was pining for some poet who wrote sonnets to my eyebrows. And by the time I had recovered from one of these sentimental attacks the good change had passed on and married some woman with more sense than I possess. There are plenty of women like me," she added philosophically, "who are always unlovely in love. There is a fatality that always makes us set our hearts on the men who will beat us and starve us. We never make a marriage about which our mothers love to boast."

And now comes the wail of a mother who asks: "Why is it that human derelicts seem to have an irresistible attraction for some girls? I have a daughter like that. From her school days up she surrounded herself with down-and-outers, shabby boys out of jobs, near-genuses who were going to dazzle the world with their achievements, but who were always hungry; drunkards she was reforming; sinners she was praying over."

"Against the entreaties and remonstrances of her father and myself and every friend she had in the world, she married about the worst of this pack of hangers-on, a man she had to go to work to support and who gambled away the money she earned. Fortunately for her he died in a few years, and we thought her experience must have taught her some sense."

"But it hasn't. She has fallen in love with a man who has every fault that her first husband had, with the addition of being extremely high-tempered and hard to get along with and arrogant and condescending, as such men are. You would think she must be insane to do such a fool thing, but she isn't. She is highly intelligent and well educated. What makes her do it?"

Oh, many explanations may be offered for this crazy, the feminine fancy for the man they shouldn't marry. Young and unsophisticated girls think it is romantic to have a man make love to them who has a dark and unsavory past. The quiet and domestic type of girl is fascinated by the tramp who tells her tales of wild adventure of which he is the hero. The girl with the instinct of the reformer in her is allured by the prospect of having a victim always at hand whom she can make over according to her own pattern.

And there are many other girls who, as a father once said to me with disgust, speaking of his daughter, seem to have a passion for the great unwashed. But the real thing that makes so many girls wreck their lives for unworthy men is the maternal instinct. It is the mother pity for the man who is still a child and cannot cope with the world; the mother impulse to take into her arms those who are weak and sick, humble and discouraged, and comfort them.

It is a grand and noble sentiment, but it plays hob with the lives of many good women.

Don't Let In-Laws Impose on You
Dear Mrs. Dix: I married a young man who had two boys, aged 17 and 10, one of whom lived with his father's mother and the other with his mother's people. After we had been married a year we decided we were in a position to take the younger boy and his grandmother on his mother's side brought him to us. She stayed for six months' visit and we got along well together, although at times my nerves seemed to be at the breaking point because she is hard of hearing and talks constantly. Now the trouble is that she has decided that she will come and live with us and bring the older boy also with her. She has plans that she will do the housework while we work and pay

Dear Mrs. Dix: I'm going to let my niece have a dozen of her young friends to a dinner at my house on her twelfth birthday. Which one of us should send the invitations, and is it necessary that I sit at table with them?

Answer: If you are giving the dinner for your niece, the invitations should be sent in your name. If, however, you are handing over your house to her, to give a party, then she sends her own invitations. In neither case is it necessary that you sit at table with them. You should at least be present. If she sends the invitations, she receives them at the door and you greet them elsewhere in the room after they have shaken hands with her. If you send the invitations, you receive

Order a package of rust-proof snap-dragon seeds and also a package of the dwarf varieties. Snapdragons are rather slow in getting started, but once started they come along pretty rapidly. One thing to remember when you transplant them into the garden from the hotbed or seed flats is to pinch back the central bud, and this will give you more side branches.

Fortunately for me, about 75 per cent of the mail consists of requests for various educational bulletins and psychological charts or rating scales. When you ask for personal advice, I must be used in its season. Once that season is over, it is over for good. Nothing is more definite than a child's separation from its dependent state of infancy. Any attempt on our part to prolong that period through authority, or emotional appeal, or financial pressure, must end in failure and the complete alienation of the child's affection for the duration of the struggle.

When the child wins his spiritual freedom he is satisfied, and he will, if encouraged, return to his family in friendship. That means that he is to be treated more as a guest in the house, a guest beloved and having special privileges. In return he will show his appreciation in a warm, friendliness, a willingness to listen to friendly advice and even warnings. He will cooperate with his father and mother in whatever plans they have for the growth and welfare of the family, and he will rise to an emergency when it comes. He will respond as a friend of the family might be expected to respond to affection, to demands for responsibility and cooperation. But he cannot accept domination that says in effect, "Go to bed."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Now the larger place was an apartment house, the smaller had been made modern to the extent of adding plumbing, lights and furniture. Nothing else had been changed.

You were foolish not to take an apartment," she rebuked the gardener. "You could have had five nice rooms for the same rent as this shack."

Sue smiled but said nothing. Her tiny domain had charm, and she knew it. The wide-boarded floors were of walnut, the big old room, which, with the exception of the small kitchen constituted the entire first floor, was quaintly paneled.

"You haven't asked me what I came for," Pats suggested presently. She was smart in a green wool suit, with gloves, hat and shoes of the same creamy brown. She had dragged out a chair for herself, careful to see that it was placed on the sidewalk and not on the actual scene of Sue's labors.

"For the pleasure of seeing me, I hope!"

Pats did not smile. Allen's sister was no longer an asset to her save that her popularity in the town seemed undiminished. Mrs. Allen Davenport had to buy her own clothes now, could no longer dine at the beautiful Trenton place, nor rely on a Trenton car to drive her about.

"I came to tell you that your house is sold!"

Sue's smile vanished. How like Pats to wish to be the bearer of bad news! Not that it was bad news, in this case. The sale of the beautiful home north of town had been an occasion of rejoicing to both herself and Bob; but Pats could not know that.

Aren't you sorry?" Pats demanded. "Heavens, Sue, you're the coolest thing! Think of that lovely place! I should think you'd simply howl at the idea of letting it go. Forest says you needn't have given up the furniture, or your personal things—like your own car, and the pearls Bob gave you. You were an idiot to do it, I think!"

"I'm sure you do, Pats; but Bob and I saw this matter differently. Whew, this city stuff! She dug into a pocket for her handkerchief and wiped her warm face. "As for the sale of the house, I knew about it last week; knew that there was a chance for it, anyway. Her tone dismissed the subject so emphatically, that even Pats hesitated about commenting further. However, she had other tiny barbs which she proceeded to throw at Sue, hoping to penetrate that busy young person's calm serenity.

Tragedy?
"Forest says they offered you a grand position in that new antique shop," she observed. "Why on earth didn't you take it? You could have kept a maid, then, and still have money of your own. It's far smarter to be a business woman these days, whether you need to or not, than it is to do your own housework."

Sue's ironic gaze rested briefly on the expensive figure of her sister-in-law. "This used to be a charming old garden," Barbara's grandmother told me as I was going to try restoring it just as it was in the Academy's time."

Pat's disparaging glance traveled from the tiny brick building which was now the Trenton's home, to the larger one some fifty yards away.

"Who but you would think of living in an old kitchen?"

"Kitchen! It was the diningroom. I'd have you know! That's what gives us our lovely big room downstairs. But think of the poor girls having to trail clear over here in wet weather when mealtime came around! I wonder why, when they were building the academy, they didn't include diningroom and kitchen!"

The other girl shrugged. It seemed to her supremely unimportant. The Young Ladies' Academy had flourished more than half a century than many of our leading universities and professional schools.

Defeat Bid by 5 Tricks but Didn't Double

BY ELY CULBERTSON

As a rule there is nothing timid about experts when it comes to doubling for penalties. In fact, some of them will admit that they use "hairline doubles" to a dangerous degree. But this applies almost exclusively to less-than-slam contracts. Differing from average players, who double slams on the specious notion that "12 or 13 tricks are hard to make," experts are extremely chary of doubling a voluntary bid in the rarefied altitudes.

Their caution is usually based on the reasoning that when the opponents voluntarily bid a slam they are doing pretty well what they are doing. In today's hand imagine the declarer's team but of the defenders, as well when a grand slam contract went down five tricks without a double!

The bidding:

North East South West
1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass
3 no trump Pass 4 clubs Pass
5 no trump Pass 6 clubs Pass
7 clubs Pass Pass Pass

Obviously, the North player was not an expert. His bidding was of the kangaroo variety, the seven club bid being particularly bad, considering all of his previous leaping.

West selected the ten of hearts as the most strategic opening lead. Dummy's ace won and the king of trumps was laid down, followed by the jack. When East showed out the declarer had a vision of what was about to happen. He won with the club ace and finessed against the diamond king. East gobbled up this trick and returned a low heart. Declarer ruffed and West dropped his king. The ace of diamonds blocked the suit. Declarer led to it, but could return to his own hand only with another ruff. Now when he led a third round of diamonds West ruffed with the club eight and picked up the one remaining trump in each hand. After that declarer's own hand was dead and dummy could take only the ace and king of spades.

The net result was a five trick penalty! And the amusing part was that neither East nor West could have doubled the contract with any degree of assurance!

As a matter of fact, declarer would have saved a trick by properly leading the five of clubs from dummy instead of the jack. With the latter card left intact, on the third lead of diamonds West would have been forced to trump in with his good queen of clubs and to return a trump in order to stop dummy's jack and declarer's ten from being used separately as ruffing cards.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

MARY MARTIN'S poise and talent merits this huge valentine. She firmly believes that no woman should permit herself to grow static. Dullness robs a woman of all beauty.

If you are not someone's valentine today, probably it is because you are an indifferent beauty. For it is a pretty well-established fact, that attractive women do not wait for attention from men.

You do not have to be a raving beauty to attract men to you, but you must be meticulous about your person and do everything in your power to preserve your mental poise as well as your body poise.

Many a girl has sacrificed a splendid marriage through the loss of temper. Men abhor a bad tempered woman and they run from her if it isn't too late. If you practice mental poise your temper will never run away with your better judgment. You will always be master of the current situation and you will have no cause for regrets!

Keep Mind Limbered
Your body requires sufficient exercise to keep it limbered. How can you command attention in any group, if you are stooped shouldered, walk in jerky tense steps and have little aches from head to toe? Yet many women who are lethargic, and who laugh at one's suggestion to exercise, have these physical faults and more. They may blame them on the work they do, how they were raised, or the lack of time to engage in a competitive outdoor game for exercise. "If I had the time and money to learn how to go!" they say as an excuse. Or, "If she had to do the housework I do every day, she wouldn't be so beautiful!"

The trouble is not with what you do. Every woman alive can find sufficient time to exercise and if she is the least bit interested in health, a long life, or her personal happiness, she will take time to exercise. If she cannot get out of doors to enjoy the benefit of the fresh air and sunshine as she exercises, she can at least open a window of her home, air a room, and get down on a rug to roll and kick. Either method will correct many of her chronic ailments.

A mind, your mind, needs limbering too. I'm amazed at the women who are satisfied to let a year go by without reading a good book, current magazines (other than the pulp variety) and keeping up with what's going on in the world. They seem satisfied to stick at home, to dream away the hours or wish them away, and grow old long before they should.

Try giving your mind a few hurdles. Get out into intelligent company and attempt to join in a stimulating discussion. If you find yourself unable to join in, determine that minute to do something about your ignorance and mental lethargy.

If you find you "don't fit in" with the women you meet, stick to a program of self-improvement until your attractiveness is recognized. A sluggish mind takes just as long to gain poise as a sluggish body. But keep giving it exercise and air it occasionally! Sweep out a lot of those cobwebs which are dimming your viewpoints.

Poise is woman's weapon—with men and with other women. If you gain it, and hold onto it, you'll be numbered among the attractive women of your community and never doubt it!

It was late afternoon before Bob returned to his home. Allen had telephoned his sister several times, reassuring messages for the most part. Bob was tied up in a conference at the bank. Bob would be free presently. Bob was perfectly all right; pretty low in his mind, poor fellow, and dog-tired, but taking the blow like a man.

Sue met him in the hall. Her small face was quite beautiful in its forgetfulness of self, in its sweet sympathy. He stared at her for a moment as though she were a stranger. There:

"Sue!" he said brokenly. "Oh, Sue, you're going to stand by me! I knew of course you would, but I didn't realize all it would mean to me. Sue..."

"There, Bob, there!" She drew him into the livingroom with a soothing hand on his arm. "Of course I'll stand by you. I'm your wife!"

"You need a man to do that, Sue," Pats said disapprovingly. "That is, if you're going to bother with it at all. Personally I don't see why you do!"

Sue, panting a little, ceased her attack on the clouds of dirt in the tiny back yard. The area she intended to be a flower garden had been spaded but not raked. Now in the thin April sunshine, she was dressed in old riding clothes and her shabbiest shoes, wrestling with the stubborn clay.

"ter-in-law," she informed her sister-in-law. "This used to be a charming old garden," Barbara's grandmother told me as I was going to try restoring it just as it was in the Academy's time."

Pat's disparaging glance traveled from the tiny brick building which was now the Trenton's home, to the larger one some fifty yards away.

"Who but you would think of living in an old kitchen?"

"Kitchen! It was the diningroom. I'd have you know! That's what gives us our lovely big room downstairs. But think of the poor girls having to trail clear over here in wet weather when mealtime came around! I wonder why, when they were building the academy, they didn't include diningroom and kitchen!"

The other girl shrugged. It seemed to her supremely unimportant. The Young Ladies' Academy had flourished more than half a century than many of our leading universities and professional schools.

Now the larger place was an apartment house, the smaller had been made modern to the extent of adding plumbing, lights and furniture. Nothing else had been changed.

You were foolish not to take an apartment," she rebuked the gardener. "You could have had five nice rooms for the same rent as this shack."

Sue smiled but said nothing. Her tiny domain had charm, and she knew it. The wide-boarded floors were of walnut, the big old room, which, with the exception of the small kitchen constituted the entire first floor, was quaintly paneled.

"You haven't asked me what I came for," Pats suggested presently. She was smart in a green wool suit, with gloves, hat and shoes of the same creamy brown. She had dragged out a chair for herself, careful to see that it was placed on the sidewalk and not on the actual scene of Sue's labors.

"For the pleasure of seeing me, I hope!"

Pats did not smile. Allen's sister was no longer an asset to her save that her popularity in the town seemed undiminished. Mrs. Allen Davenport had to buy her own clothes now, could no longer dine at the beautiful Trenton place, nor rely on a Trenton car to drive her about.

"I came to tell you that your house is sold!"

Sue's smile vanished. How like Pats to wish to be the bearer of bad news! Not that it was bad news, in this case. The sale of the beautiful home north of town had been an occasion of rejoicing to both herself and Bob; but Pats could not know that.

Aren't you sorry?" Pats demanded. "Heavens, Sue, you're the coolest thing! Think of that lovely place! I should think you'd simply howl at the idea of letting it go. Forest says you needn't have given up the furniture, or your personal things—like your own car, and the pearls Bob gave you. You were an idiot to do it, I think!"

"I'm sure you do, Pats; but Bob and I saw this matter differently. Whew, this city stuff! She dug into a pocket for her handkerchief and wiped her warm face. "As for the sale of the house, I knew about it last week; knew that there was a chance for it, anyway. Her tone dismissed the subject so emphatically, that even Pats hesitated about commenting further. However, she had other tiny barbs which she proceeded to throw at Sue, hoping to penetrate that busy young person's calm serenity.

Tragedy?
"Forest says they offered you a grand position in that new antique shop," she observed. "Why on earth didn't you take it? You could have kept a maid, then, and still have money of your own. It's far smarter to be a business woman these days, whether you need to or not, than it is to do your own housework."

Sue's ironic gaze rested briefly on the expensive figure of her sister-in-law. "This used to be a charming old garden," Barbara's grandmother told me as I was going to try restoring it just as it was in the Academy's time."

Pat's disparaging glance traveled from the tiny brick building which was now the Trenton's home, to the larger one some fifty yards away.

"Kitchen! It was the diningroom. I'd have you know! That's what gives us our lovely big room downstairs. The Little Chute team has won four games and lost six. St. John's Menasha rests in third place in the league standings because they have one postponed game. Sacred Heart, Appleton, their opponents tonight, have lost 10 straight games and the Menasha team will be favored to score its seventh victory against three defeats. Baptist Missionary To Give 3 Lectures In Neenah Next Week

Neenah — Neenah Dr. William Axling, Baptist missionary from Tokyo, Japan, will give three addresses in Neenah Tuesday, Feb. 20. He will talk to Neenah High school students at 9.50 in the morning and at noon at a meeting of the Neenah Lions club at the Valley Inn. His third talk will be at 7.30 in the evening at the Whiting Memorial Baptist church.

Dr. Axling took part in the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments in 1931 where his information on the Japanese people was sought by delegates to the conference. The missionary went to Tokyo in 1906 and founded and developed the Tokyo Musaki tabernacle, an evangelization, education and social service. The settlement, which is connected with the church, does welfare work in the slum sections of the city.

Dr. Axling is the author of several books on Japan.

St. Mary Cagers To Battle Neenah In Feature Clash

Strong Teams of Two Conferences Will Meet Friday Night

Menasha — St. Mary's High school cagers will clash with Neenah High school, their Twin City rivals, in the feature game of the year Friday night at St. Mary's gymnasium. Only a few seats still are available for the game Friday night.

The contest will bring together two of the top teams of the Fox Valley Catholic conference and the Northeastern Wisconsin conference. The Zephyrs still are in first place in the Fox Valley Catholic league but have had a defeat tacked onto their record. They can finish as undisputed champions of their conference by beating St. John of Little Chute next Wednesday night.

The Zephyrs already have met two of the first division teams of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference and have one victory in three games. New London handed them their first defeat of the year, 16 to 26, and Kaukauna scored a 30 to 18 victory last Friday. The Zephyrs previously had defeated Kaukauna, 39 to 15, at Kaukauna.

Both the Zephyrs and the Rockets hold victories over teams of the Fox Valley conference. Neenah drubbed Appleton, 32 to 14, and the Zephyrs edged Manitowish, 22 to 21 and then drubbed the Ships, 36 to 28. Both Manitowish and Appleton are in the second division of their conference.

Clash 10 Times The Zephyrs have clashed with the Rockets 10 times since the series opened in 1931. Neenah has a decided edge with seven victories. Neenah rang up two decisive victories when the series opened in 1931-32, winning 39 to 16 and 33 to 19.

The series was not resumed until 1935 and since then the teams have met each year. The Zephyrs won both games that year by narrow margins. The scores were 29 to 24 and 23 to 20.

Neenah ran five victories together before the Zephyrs broke into the string in the last game a year ago. The scores in 1936-37 were 26 to 6 and 25 to 12 for Neenah while the following year they were 34 to 23 and 28 to 25 for Neenah.

Last year the Rockets won the first game at Neenah, 29 to 20, but suffered a let-down in the second game and received a 44 to 19 thrumping. The Rockets then went on to win the district and regional tournaments and second place in the state class B meet. The Zephyrs won consolation honors in the St. Norbert tournament.

Menasha Second Team Loses, 21-5

Kaukauna Reserves Hold Junior Jays to Single Field Goal

Menasha—Kaukauna High school reserve cagers made it a double victory Tuesday night by drubbing the Menasha reserves 21 to 5 in a preliminary game at the Menasha High gymnasium. Spice paced the Kaukauna team with four field goals while Busse added five points.

The score was close only during the first half. The Kaws took a 6 to 1 lead in the first quarter but were held scoreless during the second quarter. Edward Naleway collected the only Blue Jay field goal of the game during that period to make the score 6 to 3.

The Jays were able to score only single free throws in the next two quarters with Kaukauna taking a 15 to 4 lead at the end of the third period. William Thompson had two free throws for the Jays while Donald Drucks had one.

Today's Valentines are Bolder Than Love Notes 100 Years Old

Neenah — Today, the traditional Valentine's day on which wives and sweethearts receive expressions of love through gifts to which are attached the 1940 version of valentines, the one hundredth anniversary of the valentine-card industry is celebrated also.

In those days, before the valentine-card could be called an industry, sentiments were expressed in letters and suitors wrote the acrostic poems in which the first letter of each line, reading vertically, would spell the name of the young woman to whom the poem was written. Feminine writers were more than cautious in their writing and camouflage was important. For parents always read the letters too.

Mrs. Arthur Ritger, Clark street, owns several love letters too. Even the Spencerian school of yesterday would envy the penmanship of those writers in 1839 and 1842 and apparently the only difference between the valentines of today and the love letters of 100 years ago is that today's expressions of love are direct and make no attempt at being cautious.

William Young, a miller, who came to Neenah in 1866 and who was Mrs. Ritger's grandfather, received a letter dated March 10, 1839, from Mary Little of Augusta, Canada, who later became his wife. Mary Little did not write that she was anxious to see William Young. She left that to the young man's imagination when she wrote "We expected to see you before this but we thought you did not have an opportunity of getting away. We hope that you come and see us as soon as possible as my mother is very weary to see you. No more at present but remain yours affectionately, Mary Little."

Mrs. Henry Clark, another grandmother of Mrs. Ritger's, who came to Neenah in 1855, was courted in Hartford, Conn., by a young man, Charles M. Taylor, when she was still Miss Eliza Thompson. Mr. Taylor, writing her May 26, 1842, said: "With pleasure I attempt to communicate my sentiments to you in a short and feeble form, believing that you will excuse all mistakes. I will scribble a few lines to inform you of my health which is very good at present and hope these few lines will find you enjoying the same sincere blessing which we all need to enjoy the comforts of this life. When I sit down and think of days that are past it seems like a dream, but still I have the affection for you now that I ever have had since I became acquainted with you. And I have always endeavored to treat you with respect, but if I have failed of so doing it was owing to my ignorance and hope you will forgive me and read the following and be assured it is not deceit: There's a smile on thy lips and a charm in thine eye. That communicate pleasure I cannot tell why.

Time will not permit me to write more at present. I must close wishing you health and prosperity in all the various pursuits of life. It would be very gratifying to me to receive a few lines from you. N. B. Please let no one see this. These few lines which I send to you are from one whose heart is true."

Enclosed with the letter was an acrostic poem, the first letter of each line spelling the name of Eliza Thompson.

Guards to Celebrate High Ranking at Party

Neenah—Officers of Company I, 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, will entertain members of the company at a party Tuesday night, Feb. 20, at the S. A. Cook Armory.

The purpose of the party is to celebrate the awarding of superior rating to the company. The company was ranked superior by Major Joseph V. Coughlin, Oshkosh, army instructor, following the annual federal inspection here Saturday afternoon. The inspection was held in conjunction with the 127th regimental conference.

Captain Howard G. Whitman reported that there are 10 openings in the company for privates. The company has returned to one drill a week, having drilled twice a week during the last couple of months. Drill scheduled will cover subjects which will be used at the summer encampment.

The marks gave Diamonds high team game and high team series. Spades won two from Clubs to increase their lead. M. Bayer rolled a 536 series and 209 game and J. Hanson hit a 501 for Spades. C. Landig paced Clubs with a 203 game and 496 series. Game scores were 813, 819, and 737 for 2,369 for Spades and 690, 806 and 794 for 2,290 for Clubs.

It Is Said--

That Menasha City Treasurer C. A. Heckrodt is marveling because today is Valentine's day and all of the valentines he received up to noon were the "nice" kind of the ones that cost a nickel or a dime and not the comic type. However, Menasha policemen, firemen, and other city officials are blaming Heckrodt for their usual quota of comic valentines.

DuShane Says America Should Face Own Problems Instead of Meddling in Affairs Abroad

Neenah—Declaring that America seems to have a "felicitous tendency to solve other people's problems while our own washing remains undone at home," Dr. Donald DuShane, Lawrence college, told members of the Woman's Tuesday club yesterday afternoon in the club rooms of the Neenah Public library that while it may appear "much easier to fight for democracy abroad than to live it at home, we should take an intelligent, realistic view of world affairs today, make democracy work at home, solve our problems, and not throw away our security and freedom for an illusory security or freedom abroad."

Neither fascism, nazism or communism spread, it is generated internally was the contention of Dr. DuShane as he stated that he believed "we should keep our powder dry but keep it at home. Our choice should be to stay here; make democracy work and solve the problems of which we have many."

Germany may yet take care of Hitler, said Dr. DuShane. The army or the Nazis may yet dispose of him. Should that not happen, we may depend on the rest of the rest of the world to settle him; France, Great Britain, the Balkans, the northern countries and, perhaps even Russia, but if Hitler should conquer all of Europe, he stands to lose Germany because then the German nation may be able to afford freedom and the reasons for his existence will no longer exist. Dr. DuShane discussed the new technics of warfare such as lack of declaration of war although war exists, the other kind of war such as technique of disintegration as happened in Austria and Czechoslovakia, as well as the technique of revolution in which the opposing forces have little or no chance against tanks, rapid fire guns and poison gas of those in power. When it is said that Hitler must be liked by the German people or there would be revolution, we forget that it is not easy to have revolution nowadays, he said.

The Stalin-Hitler pact of last August which, Dr. DuShane said, was a beautiful piece of work for Americanism because it brought greater unity in the United States than ever before, was discussed briefly together with the peculiarities of the current international situation such as the war which is peculiar in that it follows a very strange kind of peace with no blitzkrieg although it may come yet. Dr. DuShane pointed out people have been brought up to believe that modern warfare would be too terrible to stand and yet there has been no blitzkrieg in the west. Economic blockades and propaganda as warfare has been used so far but no modern warfare. Why? It is too terrible to unleash. It would take too many German lives to break through the Maginot line to attempt that. Germany tried bombing plan, fleets, her cities would be open to the same type of treatment. The only thing left for Germany is to starve England before England starves her. Germany has been snapping at the heels of English ships as well as other ships carrying English cargo in an attempt to make war expensive and burdensome to England.

War Has Been Cheap At any rate, the war to date has been cheap in life and material and it is apparent that modern warfare is best used as threats, not as weapons in the minds of the belligerents. This war is a war no one wanted. England didn't want it but she promised aid to Poland. Hitler didn't want it but he didn't think, England would fight. No one really wants it even now though it has been cheap so far.

Dr. DuShane exploded a number of alleged issues in this war. "Some persons believe it is a war between democracy and dictatorship; yet there are dictatorships on both sides and it is only because of a diplomatic blunder that Russia isn't fighting with the democracies. There are those who believe the war is between the have-nations and the have-nots. Russia is one of the have nations. Germany is also a have nation though she claims otherwise. If Germany hadn't been rearming for the last six years, the German people could have had all the butter, eggs, cream and other commodities they wanted as well as enjoyed comparative prosperity. "I do not mean to be irreverent but I doubt that God has taken sides in this war as the participants believe."

"I do not believe the nations are fighting for any ideals or that it is a struggle of the aggressors and the non-aggressors. It is up to United States to keep out of it. As Charles Beard has pointed out, European history through the centuries has been the history of European power politics, each nation jockeying for position, striving to maintain the old balance of power," he concluded.

Salesman Bill says he's lucky his territory is mostly along the Orange Line. He can leave his car at home for "the Missus" to use. What's more, he's got it figured out that riding the ROAD CRUISERS saves him enough to cover his state income tax. Here's how: He averages about 80 miles a week, and counting off 2 weeks for vacation, he travels 4,000 miles a year. Salesmen know car operating costs—and Bill says 3¢ a mile would barely cover gasoline, oil and tire expense. But by riding the Orange Line he cuts travel costs from $120 to $72. Saves $48— or more than enough to pay income tax on March 15.

New Voters Hear Talk on Program For Citizenship

Chairman of Manitowoc County Project Addresses Neenah Group

Neenah—Jerome Malberg, Keil, chairman of the Manitowoc county citizenship training program, outlined the origin of the program as group meetings for Neenah's new voters got underway at a general meeting last night at the new recreation building.

S. F. Shattuck had charge of the meeting. Following Malberg's talk, an open discussion was conducted and group meetings held. Forty-eight persons, mostly new voters, attended the meeting.

Group meetings will start in Neenah at 7:30 Tuesday evening. Third and Fifth ward new voters will meet with their leader, R. D. Malzow, at Roosevelt school, while Second and Fourth ward voters will meet with Gaylord C. Loehning, the leader, at Kimberly school, and First ward new voters will convene with Fred Bentzen, leader, at the Neenah Public Library. Ward meetings will continue until Citizenship day May 19.

Conducts Discussion

Mr. Shattuck conducted the discussion, and new voters asked questions about the program and its meaning. One question asked was "Is this program designed to influence new voters to any political party?" Mr. Shattuck answered, "No. It is wholly non-partisan. Its purpose is to learn and discuss government."

In his talk, Malberg, who was a new voter last year, said that the program during the last year has spread throughout the nation and even abroad. It was originated by Dr. R. J. Colbert of the University of Wisconsin who observed considerable opposition to the democratic form of government and a general lack of interest in the right to vote, as well as a general feeling that politics is just a dirty business.

In conceiving the program, Dr. Colbert visualized discussion groups of 20-25-year-old men and women with the purpose of understanding government. The group meetings could be concluded with a "graduation" day in which the new voters would be honored.

Inaugurated Last Year

After talking about his plan throughout the country, Dr. Colbert finally got a chance to try it in Manitowoc county last year. A mass convention was held at which plans were discussed, committees named and group meetings arranged.

Citizenship day was on May 21, 1939, and more than 25,000 persons went to Manitowoc to attend it. A huge parade in which practically every organization in the county participated was held, and the National Broadcasting company broadcast the ceremony. New voters took the oath of citizenship and received certificates.

The young speaker listed the following three points on what the program means to the young voters: gives them an opportunity to express themselves freely and participate in local government; shows the privileges enjoyed as an American citizen, and gives them an opportunity to develop leadership.

ICE GORGES ALLEGHENY RIVER IN PENNSYLVANIA

Round Out Plans for Annual Calumet County Barley Show

Chilton — Prof. George M. Briggs and Prof. R. E. Vaughan of the agricultural college at Madison and Willis Combs and F. A. Cummings of the federal grain division of Milwaukee will be the speakers at the fifth annual Calumet county barley show which will be held for the farmers and grain dealers in the city hall at Chilton from 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Feb. 21, until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Because Calumet county is one of the outstanding barley producing counties in the state, it has been selected as one of the several counties where the agricultural college and the federal grain department are cooperating in holding barley schools.

The purpose of the meeting, according to A. L. McMahon, county agent, is to help bring buyers and producers of barley together to help understand one another's problems so that the best price and returns per acre may be realized. Also to develop a quality barley production program from a community standpoint because farmers are individually unable to meet the many problems involved in the complicated matter of raising and marketing high quality barley.

To renew the farmers' interest in barley as a feed crop and also as a nurse crop, due to its adaptability to heavier types of soils, the examination of samples of barley brought into these meetings will determine the fitness for seed purposes and recommendations for cleaning and treating such samples will be given.

The following questions will be discussed: What about the relationship between the farmer and the malster? Why are certain varieties of barley more desirable than others? What about mixtures of barley and oats or wheat? What is barley scab and blight?

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Donald Andrews.

The Oscar Pross farm of 160 acres, located in the town of New Holstein, Calumet county, was sold Saturday to Arno Krupp, Chilton, for a consideration of $13,000 without personal property. Mr. Krupp will take possession on April 1.

Farm Department Gives Details on Parity Payments

Allocation Based on Formula Set Up By Legislation

Washington—The agriculture department told Tuesday how it would distribute $225,000,000 in parity payments among farmers who cooperate with the year's federal crop control program.

This far, approximately last year, would be divided among the basic crops as follows:

Cotton $9,000,000, corn $48,000,000, wheat $57,000,000, and rice $30,000,000.

The balance would be used to complete 1939 parity payments to most agricultural producers and to provide a security fund.

This allocation was made, officials said, on the basis of a formula established by farm legislation.

The amount set aside for each crop would be divided among cooperating farmers in the ratio:

Cotton 1.55 cents per pound, corn 5 cents a bushel, wheat 10 cents a bushel, and rice 12 cents per hundredweight.

Girl Gets Hearing Back After Being Deaf for 13 Months

Grafton, W. Va.—P.—Specialists said 18-year-old Eloise Lockard would never hear again, but she did—and faintly with joy.

Totally deaf for 13 months, Miss Lockard was sitting at home with other members of her family by reading their lips when she suddenly asked her startled mother:

"What did you say? I believe I heard you."

She collapsed after he repeated the statement. Just to confirm return of her hearing, Eloise telephoned her father yesterday and said she experienced no difficulty in understanding him.

Police Captain A. E. Lockard reported his daughter became deaf while a senior in high school but graduated last June despite the handicap. Specialists said the nerves in her ears were paralyzed and that they couldn't help her. Physicians here were unable to explain return of her hearing.

Bassett Keynote Speaker for State Republican Confab

Robert Bassett, Green Bay attorney, will be the keynote speaker for the first mid-winter convention of the Wisconsin Republicans at LaCrosse, Feb. 19 and 20. He will talk early in the morning session on the first day of the convention.

Plans are being made to have a large delegation represent Outagamie county at the meeting.

Pervasive officers will be named and Governor Heil will speak at the first morning session. There is a possibility that a speaker of national repute will be brought to LaCrosse, and if this is done, a special session will be arranged for the evening of Feb. 19.

The convention session will close on Feb. 20 with much of the activity dealing with the organization work in the precincts, counties, congressional districts and the state as a whole.

New Labor Board Seen at Capital

Chief Complaint Apparently About Method Rather Than Law Itself

BY W. B. RAGSDALE

Washington—(U)—The betting odds are better than even that congress will wipe out the present national labor board and establish a new one with five members.

Other minor changes may be made, but most of those who have been clamoring about the board's operations are becoming convinced that their chief complaint is against the way the agency has enforced the Wagner act instead of against the law itself.

With that in mind, influential members of congress are trying to figure out a way to pluck the present agency out of the governmental setup and create a new one to make a fresh start on the problem. Even some ultra-New Dealers have expressed such a view.

Such a recommendation is the extent of the committee's powers.

CHEST COLD MISERY

FIRST—rub throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime.

THEN—spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warm cloth.

RIGHT AWAY, VapoRub goes to work—loosens phlegm—cases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air passages—relieves coughing. And often by morning, most of the misery of the cold is gone.

however—to recommend legislation. It cannot prepare a bill and bring it on the house floor. Its proposals have to go to the house labor committee, which will work out the bill. That stipulation was a part of the deal by which the house agreed that Representative Smith (D-Va.) and his special committee might go digging into the labor field.

Prominent Democrats have become convinced that the committee has demonstrated the need for a change and that for tactical purposes it should be made before the presidential campaign gets going.

6,694 Birds Banded in Wisconsin During 1939

Madison—Forty-five Wisconsin bird ranchers placed identification bands on 6,694 birds during 1939, a tabulation of reports by the conservation department shows. Bird banders must have permits to carry on this cooperative work which makes it possible to study migrations, life histories and other angles of bird life.

Some cooperators specialize on banding certain birds such as the herring gull, common tern, chimney swift, hawks, owls, crows, starlings and grouse. Others band mostly song birds and some of these tag hundreds of birds in a single year. At such stations the white-throated sparrow and the slate-colored junco are the most trapped, but often rare warblers, sparrows and other unusual birds are caught and banded.

Irvin S. Cobb, the humorist, once conducted a column called "Sour Mash" for the Louisville Evening Post.
